36 counties termed disaster areas

Harvest estimates continue to fall

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Anticipated harvests for Missouri farmers are continuing to plummet, but the federal government, recognizing the impact of the third straight drought on the state, has already declared 36 grain-belt counties eligible for emergency assistance.

The federal disaster declarations for the 36 counties were announced Friday by Gov. Christopher S. Bond just shortly after the U.S. Department of Agriculture said its harvest estimates based on Sept. 1 field conditions showed another significant reduction in corn and soybean yields.

But state agriculture experts said the USDA estimates, at or below last year's drought-reduced production, are still too optimistic.

The soybean harvest was projected at 23 bushels an acre for a total crop of 98.9 million bushels, down from the August estimate of 25 bushels an acre and the 10-year average of 25.5 bushels. Corn was anticipated to yield 63 bushels an acre, the same as last year and down from the August estimate of 70 bushels an acre and the 10-year average of 73 bushels. Total production was placed at 181.4 million bushels.

"That's still too damn high," said William Murphy, field crop specialist for the University of Missouri Extension. "I just can't see where it's coming from. I don't mean there's not some good corn in areas, but there's a lot more corn in the state that's in bad shape."

Murphy said the corn yield, after the driest July and August on record, has to be below 60 bushels an acre and the soybean yield "ought to be getting down close to 20 bushels an acre," which would be the worst yield since 1956.

But while Missouri farmers struggle with their third straight bad harvest, the national picture continued to remain bright with the corn harvest still expected to be a record. That should mean sufficient grain supplies to fill consumer demands without triggering any increase in food prices.

Because of that, however, Missouri farmers will not be able to get an inflated price for their reduced crops as they can in times of shortages, forcing them to rely again on low-interest federal loans they become eligible for when their counties are declared federal disaster areas.

"We have people paying interest on every dime they own and this is the third year," said Clark Dyer, an Osborn, Mo., farmer who met with state and federal agriculture officials earlier this week. "People my age may decide to quit. We may be forced to."

The declaration of the first 36 counties as disaster areas came only a day after state Agriculture director James Boillot and Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Director Kenneth Frick toured drought-stricken farms and talked with farmers.

"Nothing can replace a good crop, but short of that I think our credit program is enough to get farmers into the next year," Frick said. "Hopefully, it doesn't make them throw good money after bad. The decision is up to them."

In addition to the 36 counties declared disaster areas Friday, requests for the same federal action are pending for another 10 and Boillot said he expects another 20 to seek the same status.

Drought losses this year have already risen to more than $600 million, bringing the estimated loss for Missouri farmers over the three years of drought to more than $1.5 billion.

Officials do not expect losses from this year's drought to be as great as those experienced in 1974, which produced the worst crops in a decade and saw more than 100 of the state's 114 counties declared disaster areas because the drought has again been spotty.

Meetings start with hijackers

PARIS (AP) — A band of Croatian nationalists holding about 50 hostages aboard a hijacked American jetliner opened negotiations with the U.S. ambassador to France early Sunday morning. The hijackers landed in Paris on Saturday after five cities in North America and Europe were pelted with propaganda leaflets on their demand.

A female hijacker, one passenger and copilot Lou Senatore left the plane and went to the control tower of Charles de Gaulle Airport to talk with Ambassador Kenneth Rush, a TWA spokesman in New York reported.

Sources at the airport said the woman wanted to telephone a Ukrainian priest in the United States to verify that major American papers had published communiques left behind in New York.

The hijackers, four or five men in addition to the woman, had earlier demanded proof that the communiques had been printed according to their instructions. Photocopies of the newspapers were transmitted to Paris by the Associated Press and rushed to the airport.

The hijacking began Friday night when the nationalists seized a TWA Boeing 727 jetliner on a New York-to-Chicago flight and ordered it on a hopscotch trans-Atlantic journey that ended Saturday in Paris.

Shortly before the talks with Rush started, the hijackers allowed a passenger suffering from a diabetic condition to leave the plane with a steward. A second steward who helped the passenger off returned to the plane, sources said.

The hijackers were reportedly armed with handguns, grenades and explosives. Their communiques and leaflets demanded independence for Croatia, a Balkan territory now part of Yugoslavia.

French authorities surrounded the plane with crack troops, blocked it, deflated its tires and said they would not let it leave the country. Its lights and engines were turned off while the hijackers opened negotiations with French authorities.

The Croatians initially demanded to speak to either President Ford, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger or Rush, the U.S. ambassador to Paris. But their major demand appeared to be for proof that their lengthy propaganda statements had been published in the New York Times, Chicago Tribune, Los Angeles Times, Washington Post and the International Herald Tribune.

The four American papers all printed one or both of the hijackers' two communiques, but the Herald Tribune has no Sunday edition and received the communiques too late for its Saturday paper.

Facsimiles of the printed statements were wired to Paris and rushed to the airport.

During the journey to Paris, an escort plane made low swoops over London and Paris to drop thousands of pink leaflets calling for independence of Croatia.

Acting on the hijackers orders, TWA had similar leaflets dropped by helicopters and private planes over New York, Chicago and Montreal.

The 727 was hijacked Friday night on a New York-to-Chicago flight, diverted to Montreal and flown to Gander, Newfoundland. There, the hijackers freed 35 of their hostages, leaving 57 persons aboard, including seven crew members and the hijackers.

Then, joined by a bigger Boeing 707 that was equipped with trans-Atlantic navigational equipment, the hijacked jet flew on to Keflavik, Iceland, and finally to Paris.

Early in the two-day odyssey, the hijackers gave instructions that led authorities in New York to the communiques containing their statements. The papers and a bomb were in a pressure cooker at New York City's Grand Central Station.

One policeman was killed and three injured trying to disarm the bomb at a firing range. The hijackers said if their statements were not published, another such bomb would go off somewhere in the United States.

No other bombs have been found.

The two statements that the hijackers wanted published in American newspaper consisted of a 1,600-word communique and a 2,500-word declaration of independence of the Croatian people.

In Belgrade, Yugoslav Foreign Ministry officials said that if the hijackers tried to continue on to Yugoslavia the plane would not be allowed to land, according to the official news agency Tanjug. The agency said U.S. Embassy officials had told the Foreign Ministry the plane might try to land in Yugoslavia.

In Washington, President Ford said through a spokesman that he was "deeply concerned" for the safety of those aboard the plane. He was reported closely monitoring developments.

The passengers freed in Gander were flown to Chicago on Saturday morning with a stop in Montreal, where TWA spokesmen said a load of leaflets was left to put aboard a helicopter and dropped over downtown Montreal.

Several of those released had high praise for the behavior of the hijackers. They said the gunmen were so polite their behavior may have been rehearsed. The passengers said the hijackers were armed with handguns and grenades and all spoke English.

Garage blaze

Sedalia fire fighters battle a blaze that gutted a two-car wooden garage early Saturday evening at 1016 West Sixth. Fire department authorities estimated $2,500 damage to the garage, owned by David Eisenstein, Kansas City, and $500 damage to its contents. Furniture owned by Clarence Bass, 1016 West Sixth, was stored in the garage. Authorities said the cause of the blaze was a brush and tree limb fire that was started near the garage.

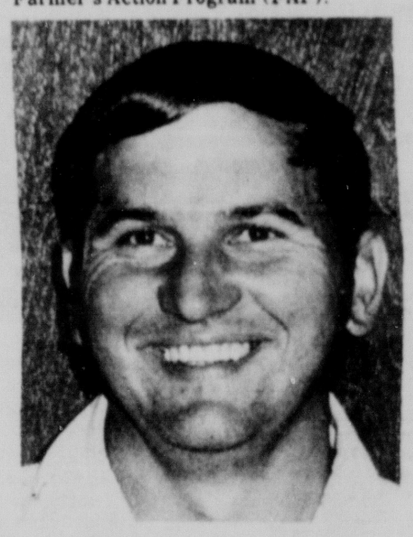
FAP turns farmers to activists

By OWEN HARDY
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

The day of the stereotypical farmer — trusting, non-controversial, unsophisticated — seems to have gone the way of the horse-drawn plow.

In an age of grain export embargoes, crop disaster loans and crushing estate taxes, farmers have been forced to specialize in a number of diverse fields, from international business to law. Now they are entering another arena — politics.

Here in Pettis County that phenomenon has taken shape in the form of the Farmer's Action Program (FAP).



Paul Siegel

"We don't have to just sit back and take what's handed to us," Paul Siegel, the organization's chairman, said recently. "Years ago, we accepted what happened. We can't do that anymore. We can be heard."

Siegel describes the group as the "political arm of the Farm Bureau." Under federal election laws, the Farm Bureau itself, a non-profit corporation, cannot engage in direct political activity, Siegel said.

The FAP here comprises most of the county Farm Bureaus in the Fourth Congressional District, Siegel explained. Two other FAP's have also been set up in the Sixth and Ninth Congressional Districts.

Siegel's group made its first real public debut with its sponsorship Aug. 25 of the Ike Skelton/Richard King debate in Sedalia. The day after that sparring match between the two Fourth Congressional representative candidates, the FAP endorsed the Republican, King.

"The Fourth (District) Congressional campaign is by far our biggest objec-

New quake strikes Italy on Saturday

UDINE, Italy (AP) — A strong earthquake jolted northeast Italy and southern Austria on Saturday, killing at least one person and injuring dozens in Italy's Friuli region, where 1,000 persons were killed in a huge quake in May. The tremors caused buildings to sway in Venice.

Two strong tremors sent tens of thousands of persons fleeing into the streets of Udine, which was badly damaged in the May quake, and other towns. Reports from several towns said buildings damaged in the May quake had collapsed.

Early reports said dozens of persons were injured by falling pieces of buildings or when they jumped out of windows in panic. An elderly man in Trento was reported killed when he fell and struck his head on a stone.

In Venice, residents and tourists rushed through the narrow streets, heading into the city's squares. Some buildings were seen swaying, but there was no immediate report of damage. There was little damage reported immediately in Austria.

The first tremor struck at 5:31 p.m. local time (12:31 p.m. EDT) and the second stronger one about four minutes later. The National Earthquake Information Service at Golden, Colo., said the largest tremor measured between 5 and 5.4 on the Richter scale and the smaller one about 4.5.

According to that scale, a quake measuring 5 can cause considerable damage in populated areas, while one measuring 6 can be severe. Each increase of one number means ground motion is 10 times greater.

However, the seismological institution in Uppsala Sweden said the first tremor hit 5.6 on the Richter scale and the second 5.9.

Clinton 'Fly-In' attracts pilots from across country

Airplanes on review . . . at Clinton Fly-In

By MAX ERKILETIAN
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

CLINTON — Birds do it, bees do it and so do human beings. Many human beings were doing it here Saturday and will be again Sunday — flying, that is.

In various sizes and colors, mono- and biplanes flew over Clinton Memorial Airport Friday and Saturday, banked left as required when approaching a towerless air strip, and landed to begin the Clinton Fly-In.

Fly-Ins attract pilots from across the nation to take part in air exhibitions and airplane displays.

Today's events begin at 2 p.m. with a sky diving show followed by an aerial acrobatic display. For those with fat pocketbooks or slender bodies, airplane rides will be offered at the rate of one penny per pound.

Some of the pilots are as colorful as their antique airplanes.

Dr. Arthur F. Lindquist, a Kansas City dentist, has flown as a professional, during World War II, and for recreation. He claims to enjoy the kind of flying he does now, but says the war years "were some of the best of my life."

The seed of aerial adventure was first planted in Lindquist's fertile imagination when, "Lindberg flew over the ocean and I heard it on my old crystal (radio) set."

In flight training for the war, Lindquist began his long association with the biplane.

"This," Lindquist said, patting the wing of his biplane, "is a fun airplane. The other (Fighter F-47's flown in World War Two) was strictly for business."

Lindquist was apparently a good businessman in the war, having survived. He his described his battle missions as a fighter pilot saying, "We flew the planes across the channel (from England), tried to shoot the Germans down, and they tried to shoot us down and we sometimes got hit and then we would go home."

All very simple, doctor. But were you ever hit?

"I got hit bad several times," Lindquist began, then catching himself on the verge of telling a war story, he concluded, "ah, but I made it back, so it's no big deal."

Lindquist explained some of the fundamentals of flying. He said horizontal movement is controlled by a rudder. Vertical movement is ruled by flaps on the wings. Pilot controls consist basically of a stick and foot peddles.

Landings and take-offs are always into the wind, Lindquist explained. He noted that to land, the antique planes have to be stalled so the pilot can glide to a safe landing.

Carl Hull, Clinton, was probably the most down-to-earth

Lighting up Las Vegas is their job

By GARY R. PEDERSEN
Associated Press Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — There are men who ride around this city at night, looking for dim spots in the brilliant landmarks of the gambling capital of the world.

In their trucks they carry long ladders, lots of wire and thousands of light bulbs to keep the huge and famous casino and hotel signs bright. These men are the electric sign company workers, laboring daily in one of the largest businesses in Las Vegas.

Each year sign companies pop thousands of light bulbs into a myriad of signs. At the same time they put up new signs, tear down old ones and in the process pump millions of dollars into the Clark County economy.

Officials estimate there are five million light bulbs in the town's signs. They are quick to point out that there also is nearly 100 miles of neon tubing mixed in there somewhere.

The hotels and casinos have for years strived to outdo their competitors when it comes to signs. To have the tallest, the widest, the heaviest, the brightest, the most expensive or whatever was the rage. Out of that competition came signs nearly 200 feet tall, with sophisticated lighting gear operated by computers. Gaudy and unique, they loom on the Las Vegas skyline.

The sign owners once advertized about how the electricity to run their signs would keep a housing tract in power for days.

Then came the energy crisis. The famous signs of Las Vegas were dimmed. The sign companies which maintained them cringed, and so did the casino owners when they saw revenues dropping drastically.

"When they turned them back on after the energy crisis, business began booming again," said Van Tuyl, of Heath Co., a firm which services a number of Las Vegas signs.

"Signs are very important to Las Vegas. Clark County depends on gambling for its major revenue source. And for the gambling we depend on tourists. They come here to enjoy the carnival atmosphere of the city, that's what they are after and the bright lights contribute to it. Frankly, I don't think Las Vegas could survive without the signs."

Las Vegas has two distinct casino-hotel areas. There is famous "Glitter Gulch," named for its brightness at night in the downtown area, and the newer, famed Strip, a loose string of luxurious hotels which have casinos inside.

Tuyl said the gulch sidewalk-to-roof lighting designed to keep nighttime as bright as the southern Nevada days.

"It was made that way to keep people in the casinos around the clock," he said.

Times changed, and casinos began moving southward on the Strip. Practicality kept hotels from stringing millions of light bulbs on facades, so came the huge signs, which have become trademarks. Added to that in some cases are exterior lights, which illuminate the hotels, making them visible for miles around.

Woman is charged in murder

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Miss Barbara Jones, 54, one of two daughters of a prominent Kansas City apartment and hotel builder, has been charged with second degree murder in the death of her sister.

Miss Jones is accused of slaying Mrs. Dorothea Jones Reid, 67, whose battered, bloody body was found in a second-floor bathtub of her home in Kansas City's fashionable Country Club section Thursday.

The Jackson County medical examiner said Friday that Mrs. Reid apparently died of drowning. The bathtub was filled with water. She had also been severely beaten on the head, police said.

A spokesman for the prosecutor's office said proceedings against Miss Jones would be continued until a psychiatric evaluation is completed. She was admitted Friday to the Menorah Medical Center.

Miss Jones walked into downtown police headquarters and reported Mrs. Reid's death. Police Sgt. James Zimmerman said she told a conflicting story of first killing her sister, then saying she only imagined it.

Later, Zimmerman said, Miss Jones told him she had killed Mrs. Reid, then attempted suicide by throwing herself in front of an automobile.

Police records show Miss Jones fell in front of a car, and the driver told police she doubted if the woman was struck. That report was filed Thursday morning. Miss Jones reported her sister's death around 1 p.m.

Stanley Cox, 26, 1112 East 16th, was sworn by the Missouri Bar Association Saturday. A 1967 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, Cox received his law degree from the University of Missouri-Columbia in May and passed the Missouri Bar examinations in July. Cox is currently a member of the Missouri Army National Guard and has opened his law office at 202 West Fourth.

Judge has no time for pleas

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — Scorning pleas for probation, Judge William M. Corrigan Friday sentenced J.B. Johnson to life in prison for the 1970 murder of a policeman.

"I feel I was innocent," Johnson told Corrigan in St. Louis County Circuit Court here. "I feel I proved my innocence May 14," he said, referring to the date when a jury convicted him.

He was found guilty of first degree murder for involvement in a jewelry store robbery and shoot-out in which University City detective James Boevingloh was killed.

It was the second time Johnson had been convicted. A 1972 conviction was overturned by the Missouri Supreme Court in 1975 on a technicality.

In his second trial he was represented by William Kuntsler. His case was publicized by the Committee to Free J. B. Johnson.

Forris D. Elliott, one of four attorneys appearing for Johnson, reminded Corrigan that state officials recommended probation after Johnson's first conviction in 1972.

"If he was a good probation risk several years ago, he's even a better risk today," Elliott said. "It's not necessary to give society the last ounce of this man's flesh and blood."

Dozens of letters from area religious and community leaders were sent to Corrigan, urging that Johnson be given probation.

In sentencing Johnson Corrigan said: "You people say he deserves probation because he's rehabilitated. Yet he isn't rehabilitated to admit he participated in the crime or show any remorse for it."

A life span of 47.6 years was average for white Americans in 1900, but that figure had climbed to 71.7 years by 1970. The life expectancy for other races went from 33.0 to 65.3 years.

Council action favored

Sixty per cent of The Democrat-Capital readers who answered last Sunday's Sound Off question said they felt that the city of Sedalia should have some sort of written agreement with its fire fighters.

Ten ballots were received, but only two readers offered comments on the issue.

The question was: "The City Council is drawing up a written agreement with the Fire Fighters union that covers numerous points. Do you favor this step?"

One Sedalian who did not wish to be identified, but who said he favored the plan, based his reason on the fact that "some sort of written statement covering wage increases, promotions, special benefits and other items is definitely better than no agreement at all. At the moment, only a general policy exists and I don't blame the firemen for feeling uncertain about where they stand.

"There have been reports that I've heard about new firemen being promoted over men who have more seniority. Perhaps this type of situation could be averted through a written statement of who will do what, and when. I think it is time this sort consideration was given serious thought," the letter concluded.

The second short letter did not agree with this view. Also unsigned, it said, "No, I do not believe the city council should draw up a written agreement with the Fire Fighters union. It is about time the council let the firemen know who is in charge — the city council or the union. The old saying, 'Give some people an inch and they will take a mile,' is true.

"Give them what they ask for today and tomorrow will be more of their ridiculous demands. There are many men who would be happy with the working conditions, hours and pay. This department seems to create more problems than any other and with less reason," it said.

Last heart surgeon quits post

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — The University of Kansas Medical Center has lost its only remaining heart surgeon, Dr. Malcolm R. S. Arnold, who announced his resignation Friday to return to his native Australia.

He said he was resigning to become chief of cardiac surgery at the Royal Children's Hospital in Melbourne, described as the third largest children's hospital in the world.

Dr. Arnold, 34, then a surgeon at another Kansas City hospital, was hired to head the medical center cardiac unit March 4 and resumed surgery April 19 after two other surgeons quit in an administrative dispute. Dr. Arnold said that had nothing to do with his leaving.

Dr. Robert B. Kugel, executive vice-chancellor at the medical center, said Friday he does not expect any interruption in heart surgery because the administration hopes to hire a new head for the department within two weeks and he will have ample opportunity to work with Dr. Arnold before Dr. Arnold leaves on Oct. 29.

Dr. Robert L. Reis, former head of heart and chest surgery at the medical center, and Dr. Hamner Hannah III, his associate, halted operations in their department last Dec. 1.

They complained that some conditions in the operating room and its intensive care unit were unsafe.

After inspections by two outside teams of specialists, the doctors were ordered to resume operations. They resigned instead.

Pallbearers will be Kenny Miller, James Durley, Bill Greer, Woody Garrison, T.O. Haggard and the Rev. James Stowall.

Burial will be in the Memorial Park Cemetery.

Irving H. Rippey

TOPEKA, Kan. — Irvin H. Rippey, 71, a former Sedalian, died at his home here Wednesday.

He was born April 23, 1905, at Sedalia and had lived here for 25 years. On Oct. 3, 1953, he married Belle Taylor, who survives.

He was a sheet metal worker until his retirement. He was a member of the First Baptist Church and Local No. 77 of the Sheet Metal Workers Union.

Also surviving are two step-daughters, Mrs. Jean Milroy, Lawrence, Kan.; Mrs. Verona Hanson, Ft. Dodge, Kan.; a sister, Mrs. Bessie Brown, 2506 Kay Ave., Sedalia; a brother, George Rippey, Granby, Colo.; and one grandchild.

Funeral services were held at 3 p.m. Friday at the Newcomer-Diffenderfer Funeral Home.

Burial was in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Mrs. Gertrude R. (Trudy) Stephens

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Mrs. Gertrude R. (Trudy) Stephens, 46, died Friday morning at a hospital here. She was born April 1, 1930, in Smithton, daughter of Flora Bultemeier and Rudy Rehmer. She was married to Eugene Rehmer, who survives of the home.

Mrs. Stephens was a registered nurse. She was a member of the Wyatt Park Christian Church here.

Other survivors include three sons, Bradley, Paul and Bruce Stephens, all of the home; one sister, Mrs. Geneva Hampy, Florence, Mo.; two brothers, Rudy Rehmer, Smithton; Quincy Rehmer, Boonville; and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. Monday at the Heaton-Bowman-Smith and Sidenfaden Funeral Chapel here with the Rev. E. L. Thompson officiating. Burial will be in the Memorial Park Cemetery here.

tive," Siegel said, although his group is keeping "close tabs on what's happening in the Senatorial race" between former Democratic Gov. Warren Hearnes and Republican Atty. Gen. John Danforth. Because the group has just formed, however, it will not attempt to take on the added work load of local or state races, Siegel said. He added, however, that "in two years, we'll definitely be involved in state races."

Support for King by the FAP will come from donations — the group is allowed to donate up to $5,000 to any one candidate — and from "footwork," Siegel said, such as telephoning, writing letters and other free services. Some money collected by the organization will be retained for such projects as flying representatives back from Washington for meetings with their constituents, Siegel noted.

In deciding on their endorsement for the Congressional race, the FAP trustees asked Skelton and King their views on a number of topics deemed vital to the farmer's interests, Siegel said. Among the most controversial of these, at least until recently, is the question of federally-imposed grain export embargoes.

Since mid-1973, the federal government has temporarily halted farm exports four times either because of feared domestic shortages or to work out new trade agreements. Siegel said that much of this area's soybeans and wheat "eventually" ends up overseas, and that the embargoes "definitely" were harmful.

Another sore spot for farmers concerns federal disaster loans based on an allotment system dating back to 1959, Siegel said. Because of surplus grain reserves in this country and a subsequent downward spiraling of agricultural prices, farmers were alloted a certain amount of maximum acreage on which to plant.

But because of the federal government's more recent policy of encouraging "fence-row to fence-row" planting, Siegel said, many farmers in drought-plagued Pettis County, which was declared a disaster area Friday by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, will not receive the low-interest loans to which they are entitled.

Federal loans are extended to farmers whose total yield for their alloted acreage does not exceed a certain predetermined "disaster" amount. By planting as much acreage as possible, Siegel said, farmers often have rendered themselves ineligible for the low-interest loans since their total yield, no matter how low when applied to the number of acres actually planted, exceeds the disaster level when applied to just the alloted acreage.

Other FAP issues concern the right of a farmer to "back-haul" commodities in his truck — farmers are currently barred by the Interstate Commerce Commission from bringing back goods for resale when they have taken their own commodities to market — and regulations produced by such laws as the Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA).

The idea for forming the FAP started last December during the annual State Farm Bureau meeting at the Lake of the Ozarks, Siegel said. A resolution was adopted calling for the formation of the political action committees in the three largely-rural Missouri congressional districts where non-incumbents were vying for House seats.

Siegel was chosen to serve as chairman for the Fourth District FAP by state Farm Bureau President Dick Johnston. Following an organizational meeting in which elected representatives from 15 county Farm Bureaus in the Fourth District chose their treasurer, Lloyd Caulkins, Stover, and secretary, Mrs. Wanda Roth, Harrisonville, the FAP here became a reality.

Siegel and Caulkins, plus the 15 county representatives, make up the 17 trustees who vote on policy for the Fourth District FAP. The trustees' terms run for two years, Siegel said.

The trustees began their political activity by interviewing six candidates before the Aug. 3 primary election who were thought to have a "good chance" of winning the Fourth District race. Of these, Democrat Don Manford and Republican Bob Johnson were given the FAP endorsement. Neither of the two won the primary.

Whatever the effectiveness of his group so far, the 28-year-old Siegel, a 1969 University of Missouri-Columbia graduate in agricultural economics, is convinced of the importance of his group in the future. "We must let other farmers in our area know the facts about candidates ... to determine their qualifications for serving in the U.S. Congress," he said.

Cycle-car crash injures man, woman

Two persons were treated and released at Bothwell Hospital Saturday evening following a car-motorcycle collision at Lamine and Broadway at 7:57 p.m.

Kenneth G. Lynam, 20, Wilmington, Del., and Tina E. Wilson, 19, Oxnard, Calif., were taken by ambulance to Bothwell Hospital after their motorcycle collided with a car driven by a 16-year-old Sedalia youth.

Police reported Lynam's motorcycle was headed east on Broadway when it collided with the juvenile's car, which was turning west onto Broadway from the northbound lane of Lamine.

Lynam was treated for fractured vertebrae and contusions and Miss Wilson was treated for abrasions to her left elbow.

The juvenile was ticketed for failure to yield.

Mrs. Phelps plans on victory dinner

By RON JENNINGS
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Back in Sedalia for the first time since she and her husband were presented with the championship bacon at the 1976 Missouri State Fair country-cured ham breakfast, Mrs. William Phelps said Friday she is confidently saving her prized pork specimen to serve at a victory dinner for Phelps, who is seeking a second consecutive term as Missouri lieutenant governor.

"I'm just keeping it until then," she smiled. "We're all looking forward to one big happy meal when November rolls around!"

Referring to her husband's nickname, "full-time Phelps," obtained after he fulfilled his 1972 campaign pledge to maintain a permanent residence in Jefferson City and attend to duties year-round, Mrs. Phelps described herself as her husband's "full-time volunteer."

In this capacity, Mrs. Phelps explained, she has helped coordinate the efforts of more than 53,000 volunteers who have helped in various capacities "to bring responsive government to the people at no increased expense." These volunteers, she said, included many college students who have earned college credit for their work and other citizens "who are simply concerned about the quality of state services provided to people and who want to do their best to provide what the state, with its limited budget, cannot always afford."

These projects include the foster grandparents program for senior citizens, in which volunteers help persons released from state prisons re-adjust to society, and other projects involving volunteer help in the state departments of mental health and parks.

A particularly impressive program instituted by her husband, Mrs. Phelps said, is the ombudsman agency in which Phelps, aided by student interns and other volunteers, handles citizens' complaints regarding many state governmental services.

"This is, I feel, one of the most important contributions my husband has made in the past four years," she said. "He and his workers have been able to cut through the layers of bureaucracy that have prevented citizens from receiving all the services they deserve and should expect from their government.

"Many times, all they need to know is who to contact directly concerning their problem. These people often-times don't know where to turn," she continued. "My husband's office has handled some 3,500 cases since the office was created. I think that remarkable record speaks for itself."

In addition to informing citizens on how best to secure the state services they want, the ombudsman's office also assists persons who feel they have been unfairly treated, Mrs. Phelps explained.

Mrs. William Phelps

"Whatever the complaint is, Bill and his staff deal with it to the best of their ability," she said. "That's why the office was created and that's exactly what Bill had in mind when he pushed so hard for it."

While living in the shadow of First Lady Mrs. Carolyn Bond, Mrs. Phelps said she feels she has made her own definite contributions to state government and is quite content with her position, even though it means she doesn't have an official residence to call her own.

Asked if she joined Mrs. Bond in supporting passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, Mrs. Phelps avoided a full commitment. Although saying she favored granting women equal pay for equal work and other equal rights benefits, she stopped short of explicitly endorsing the proposed amendment itself.

"My husband was active in leading efforts that changed certain salary conditions which existed in state government previously," she noted. "I believe it may have been in the Department of Revenue, I'm not for sure, but I do know that women now receive the same exact pay that men do who perform the same jobs, which wasn't always the case before. I'm definitely in favor of changes such as this."

Man reports tools taken from truck

Patrick Ferguson, Crestview Trailer Court, reported the theft of $200 worth of tools from his truck between 10 a.m. Friday and 5 a.m. Saturday while it was parked at Fourth and Washington streets. The tools were reportedly in a tool box in the bed of the truck.

pilot at the Fly-In. He was never airborne, piloting his model airplane by radio from the ground.

He said model flying takes "as many hours or more" as flying the real ones. The cost is as much as some of the real ones too. Hull bought his plane and radio control equipment for about $600.

When Charles Botts, Olathe, Kan., bought his Meyers OTW in 1960, it cost $700. Now it is a collector's item.

"These things were considered junk, kind of like the Model T's at one time," said Botts.

Only 102 of the Meyers OTW's were built in 1941. With the outbreak of the Second World War, production of the plane was stopped. Several years after the war, Meyers' factory stopped all production. Needless to say, parts are hard to find.

Some of the former Meyers' employes still live near the company's northern Michigan plant. Botts has found it valuable to keep in touch with some of them.

"They are real northern Michigan types," said Botts, "and if they like you, they really like you."

Their feelings for Botts and his plane were illustrated last year when a former Meyers' employe went to a Detroit, Mich. foundry to repair a broken wheel for his OTW.

Armco Steel Corp., Kansas City, treated women members of the company's management staff to a break from routine work chores with a visit to the Tiki House on the estate of Robert Parkhurst, Route 3, Friday. As part of the entertainment furnished during the visit Kay Truett, owner of Stacey's Place, Kansas City, and friends modeled fashions from the shop. Mrs. Truett, left, and Sharon Schroff, Armco, Sandra Parkhurst, Sedalia, and R. C. Rhoads, Armco Works Manager, took a moment to view the scenery before the fashion show began. Area woman killed in two-car accident

SWEET SPRINGS — A 37-year-old Sweet Springs woman was killed in a two car accident on Highway 127, inside the city limits here, at 11:05 p.m. Friday.

Pronounced dead at Sweet Springs Community Hospital was Glenda Ruth Bell. According to Highway Patrol reports, the Bell car, a 1973 Ford, was headed south on Highway 127 when a 1972 Ford, driven south by James Steinkuehler, 19, Houstonia, attempted to pass.

Mrs. Bell reportedly had just begun making a left turn to enter the Sweet Springs Nursing Home, where she worked in a second job, when her car was hit broadside by the Steinkuehler vehicle. The Bell car was flipped over on its top, pinning Mrs. Bell inside.

After a wrecker righted the car, she was taken to the hospital here and was pronounced dead on arrival. Steinkuehler suffered a laceration of the right arm, but did not require hospitalization. No citations were issued in the case. Both the Highway Patrol and Sweet Springs police investigated the accident.

Mrs. Bell was born Jan. 26, 1939, at Preston, Mo., daughter of John and Cora Esther Erickson Russell.

She is survived by one son, Randy Bell, of the home; three daughters, Janice, Susan and Shirley Bell, all of the home; two brothers, John Russell, Kansas City; Earl Russell, Blue Springs; six sisters, Mrs. Eunice Stoufer, Mack's Creek; Mrs. Mary Harris and Mrs. Esther Brockman, both of Springfield; Mrs. Louella Stark and Mrs. Martha Raffurty, both of Kansas City; and Mrs. Jessie Hemme, Emma.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Monday at the Miller Funeral Home here with the Rev. James West officiating.

Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery, Sweet Springs.

Two youths escape from jail Friday

WARSAW — Two youths awaiting preliminary hearings on cattle rustling charges escaped from the Benton County jail here sometime late Friday night or early Saturday morning, sheriff's department authorities reported.

Jackie Robinson, 17, Edwards, and Eldon E. Brown, 18, Cross Timbers, were discovered missing from the jail at about 1:15 a.m. Saturday, authorities said.

The two allegedly pried loose ceiling material of their cell and crawled over the top to the jail's outer wall. They then reportedly pried bricks loose to make an 18-inch hole in the wall and slipped through the hole.

A search for the escapees was in progress Saturday night.

Pair seek $30,000 after car accident

A lawsuit seeking $30,000 in damages was filed in Circuit Court Friday.

The action, filed by Mary and David Craig, alledges that Lindsey Charles Holt was negligent in the operation of his 1973 Comet when it collided with the rear of the Craig auto Dec. 20, 1975. Both cars were being driven west on Broadway when the accident occurred.

Mrs. Craig is sueing for $25,000 in injuries, while her husband is seeking $5,000 for loss of his wife's services.

Question Answer

Do I have to pay Federal Income Tax on the life insurance I received recently?

Very probably the insurance money you received is exempt from Federal Income Taxation. Insurance proceeds are usually paid to related beneficiaries for the purpose of providing funds after the death of the insured. However, if the insurance money was paid to you in satisfaction of a debt, or for some other valuable consideration, then all or a portion of the money must be included in your gross income for Federal Income Tax purposes. This applies also to death benefits paid under accident and health insurance policies.

As a general rule, therefore, this money is tax exempt if you are the surviving spouse or a relative of the insured and the insurance proceeds were paid in a lump sum to you as the beneficiary of the policy.

Thurber thought he was funny

Sevareid trying to shed 'gloom-doom' image

By Ira Berkow

"Did I ever kiss my father?" repeated Eric Sevareid. "What a question!"

Eric Sevareid, the gray lion of American TV profundity and punditry, was not exactly shaken from his lofty reserve by the question. Yet for a moment he did grow exclamatory, complete with the upraising of his bushy but groomed eyebrows.

"Don't try to psychoanalyze me, please," he said, returning to sonorous cadence. "You know, newspaper reporters like to take one trait and build on it. Mine is gloom and doom. For some reason, it's the bad traits, or the unattractive qualities, that are usually emphasized. But people are made up of many parts."

Mr. Sevareid was assured that the question was an attempt — a bumbling one, perhaps — to indeed view another side of him. In his autobiography, "Not So Wild A Dream," just re-released after 30 years, Sevareid, who was born in North Dakota, spoke of his father who inherited a Norwegian reserve that, to his son Eric was frustrating. In later years the barrier of feeling began to break down between father and son. The interviewer now explained that he had wondered only how far the barrier had been pierced.

Sevareid was at the bedside when his father died. He later chanced to look through his father's wallet and saw a letter Eric had written him; it was folded, yellowed — preserved.

"He was a man who loved deeply, but it was hard for him to express his love," said Sevareid.

Ironically, Sevareid's business is mass communication. And although a fixture for years on the CBS Evening news, he is still solicitous about how he appears, sounds — communicates.

He is allotted about 180 seconds, some 400 words, to give a trenchant, lucid analysis of a complicated, major issue of the day.

"It's so brief that one runs the risk of coming off smug," said Sevareid. "I'm in an especially precarious position because I look solemn. Sometimes I attempt something funny. Thurber thought I was funny. He'd occasionally write me and say I was one of the few humorists around the country — but maybe he was just trying to be funny himself."

For the most part, Sevareid's commentaries are always gracefully written (by him) and knowledgeable, usually learned and sometimes abstruse.

He appears comfortable declaiming, even over milk and croissants. His comments at a recent breakfast in Manhattan were far-ranging.

On the upcoming Ford-Carter debates: "Ford is not as much of a pushover as the Carter people believe. Ford is not a philosopher, not a learned man, but he is intelligent.

"He has an extremely retentive memory. For example, when he briefed the press a few months ago on the budget, he spoke for some time without referring to notes or advisors. It was very impressive. I haven't seen a president do that since Truman. No, Ford is anything but a village idiot."

On Carter: "He is a tough, supremely self-confident man. I don't think it bothered him to be booed at the American Legion convention. He knows where he stands."

On the election: "I am worried about all four of those men running. Each is from a small town. Small towns are not doing that badly, but big cities are in terrible trouble. Do these men have it in their guts to understand the cities? I doubt it."

On unemployment: "Unemployment is growing, but so is employment. There are more people coming into the work force. The hole in the donut grows, but the donut grows, too.

"We now have a thing called 'choice' unemployment. People can get jobs, but they are waiting it out to get a good job. This is very different from the Depression. Then, you couldn't get any job.

"Also, people generally do not stay unemployed for long today. There will always be a small number, maybe three per cent of hard-core unemployables. But jobs are there. Look in the want-ads of the newspapers. There are columns and columns full of jobs available.

On government spending: "Waste seems uncontrollable in our vast bureaucracy. So the question is, 'Where should we waste our money?' The Reagan people want it for the military. Democrats want it for social programs. The conservatives are willing to spend tens and tens of billions of dollars on that B-1 bomber that hasn't even been tested yet.

"If we are going to spend great chunks of money, I'd rather spend it to help people and not to kill people."

On crime in the streets: "Our cities are becoming jungles in this respect. The first duty of a government is to protect its citizens. I think strict law and order is the only answer left."

Sevareid had to depart for a television appearance. He was asked if he gets nervous anymore. "Yes, and the worst kind," he said. "I get shortness of breath. Lowell Thomas used to sweat buckets before going on. Other people literally shake."

It was mentioned that when Gordie Howe, the hockey star, was asked if he still gets butterflies before a game, he said, "No, I drink insecticide."

Sevareid hesitated, then broke into a great laugh. When the laugh appeared over, it found a surprising second wind. Would that we heard some of that on the air, too.

Have you ever seen that insurance commercial where the husband and wife arrive home only to discover their house has been burgled? As the flashing red lights of the police cruiser silhouette them in the darkness, the man turns to his half-numb wife and says, "It was everything we had."

We've just sent another child off to college and we look the same way. If he ever plugs in all the appliances he took at the same time, he will plunge Los Angeles into total darkness.

We can understand ripping off the staples: clock, radio, hair dryer, records, luggage, night stands, tennis rackets, skis, backpacks, tape recorder, typewriter and television set. What we can't understand is his sudden fascination with things he never used at home.

Bicycle: A seven-letter obscene word meaning, "You mean I don't get the car?" This has been sitting in a corner of the garage gathering dust for three years. The bicycle was put to stud after our son revealed he was the only teenager in North America who had not developed an accelerator foot.

14 towels: We didn't think he knew what they were. Someone must tell him they're not disposable, but after being scooped up off the floor can be laundered and used time and time again.

Dictionary: We would never have guessed his quest to be understood. For the last four years, he has limited his vocabulary to one-word-fits-all: gross. This applies to food, surroundings, vacations, people, teachers, studies, car, allowances, records, and his basic philosophy.

Glasses: This is encouraging. The last time he dug them out was when he wanted to see something.

Shirt without a message on it: This could mean one of two things: he is discarding the things of his childhood and entering an adult phase of dress ... or he needs rags to stuff in around his stereo in packing.

A set of sheets: The thought is there, but we've got to get through to him that they do not reproduce themselves.

"Isn't there some relief program to prevent this?" I asked my husband as we surveyed our bare domain.

"Yes," he pondered. "I think it's called 'birth control.'"

Howard loses bid to change vote outcome

ST. LOUIS (AP) — State Sen. Raymond Howard, D-St. Louis, has lost a bid to overturn the results of the Aug. 3 Democratic primary election in which he lost his seat to Rep. J. B. "Jet" Banks.

St. Louis Circuit Court Judge Carl R. Gaertner ruled Friday that in five days of testimony Howard failed to prove that enough ballots had been cast to close the 617-vote gap between Howard and Banks.

"Viewing the evidence in the light most favorable" to Howard, Gaertner threw out only 273 votes.

Superintendent still needed in Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The job of superintendent of the Kansas City schools district, already rejected twice by applicants, was left open Friday by the school board which voted to continue its search for a replacement.

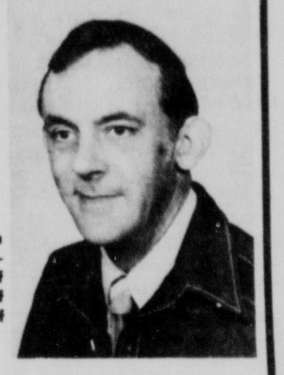
Meanwhile, the board decided to name acting Supt. Edward E. Fields interim superintendent until a permanent successor is found.

The board gave Fields full duties as superintendent and increased his salary from $42,000 to $45,000 a year, but left unclear the significance of his new title.

The district has been without a permanent superintendent since the resignation a year ago of Dr. Robert L. Medcalf.

The vote Friday was the third time the board has passed over Fields in its search.

Bud Brown's Bulletin Board



This is the first in a series of my viewpoints on the office of Pettis County Sheriff to the citizens of Pettis County.

Many people have told me of the difficulty they have had in getting someone from the Sheriff's office to come and investigate a burglary, civil disturbance, livestock rustling, or simply serving legal papers promptly. I am told that some calls were Never answered. Some didn't even receive a phone answer!

I feel that this is a Sheriff's first responsibility. As your Pettis County Sheriff I would insure that every legitimate call is answered promptly!!

Remember— count not the time in office, but how well or conscientiously the job is being done.

Take advantage of the versatility of your CB

By Ink Dipper

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Ink Dipper (KYZ-3916) is the handle of the editor of The CB Times-Journal.)

If you're one of those millions who have finally made the move toward having a CB in your four-wheeler, then maybe it's time you hooked a unit up in other areas of your life.

For instance, more and more fishermen are finding that it's much easier to find "where the fish are" with a CB at their side.

For practical purposes you won't be scaring fish away by screaming to a nearby boat to see how the catch is going.

It will also save time from fishing in the wrong place till the sun goes down, and turning in with a dry haul.

And don't minimize the fact that there could be a dire emergency aboard your boat and the only way you could get attention is by setting your boat afire or using CB.

Yes, you'll be able to scream for help from your good buddies, but don't expect to hear from the Coast Guard, if you're in their area.

The only way a CBer can get Coast Guard help is if he also has an FM frequency radio on board or locates one in another boat.

The U.S. Coast Guard refuses to monitor CB because of the many hoaxes they claim have been perpetrated via CB.

So the Coast Guard may not listen to you, but the fish probably will.

Fishermen aren't the only outdoorsmen who find the air waves a help. Have you thought of back-packing with a CB for company?

A hand-held CB transceiver is a self-contained CB radio. You can take it anywhere on a back-packing expedition, from New York's Central Park to the Smokey Mountains.

A walkie-talkie can be bought for as little as $15.95 and up to $149.95. And if you're a member of a family in which everyone likes to route his own course on family outings then stick them all with a CB. It works much better than saying, "Meet you back here at 8:15 p.m." This way you can find out where they are and if they need help.

How about a CB on your two-wheeler (or motorcycle)? It may sound strange, but it can be a life-saver for motorcyclists, just as well as automobile drivers.

Duncan Parks, a 68-year-old man from Watkins Glen, N.Y., made a cross-country trek from his home to California and back. His company for the trip? A motorcycle and his sweet-talking CB, of course.

Parks felt prepared for anything after he put his CB in an old camera case and wore it around his neck with a transistor radio earphone which plugged into his helmet.

"I was going alone," Parks said, "and realizing the vastness of this great country and the possibility of a breakdown. But I got my CB."

Even though you might not be planning to go boating, back-packing or motorcycling right away, you could be just planning to bicycle around the block, and need to be in contact with home.

There's a CB for every occasion and there's no limit to its use for leisure or in an emergency, all it takes is a desire to communicate and a little imagination. (NEA)

In ranks

Navy Seaman Recruit Noal R. Crouch, son of Donald E. Crouch, 116 East Chestnut, is participating in a NATO maritime exercise called "TeamWork '76." He is a crewmember on the frigate U.S.S. Edward McDonnell.

The two-week exercise involves more than 80,000 personnel, 200 surface ships, 30 submarines and 300 aircraft from nine NATO countries and France.

Crouch joined the Navy in January, 1975.

IN A NAME

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — For more than 60 years, John Milton Wallace has been known as "Bob" Wallace.

The reason: as a youngster he got into his share of fights and he had such a peculiar way of bobbing up and down while fighting that he was nicknamed Bobber, which eventually contracted to Bob.

NPS could gain from proposal

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—National Park Service (NPS) units in 10 states of the Midwest Region would share in a 10-year, $1.5 billion Bicentennial Land Heritage Program which President Ford has proposed.

NPS Regional Director Merrill D. "Dave" Beal of Omaha said Ford has asked the Congress to appropriate the funds for expansion, development and upgrading of national parks, recreation areas, wildlife refuges, urban parks and historic parks.

Ford has proposed the immediate appropriation of $110 million from the Land and Water Conservation Fund for NPS land acquisition purposes, Beal said Friday.

Amount earmarked for the Midwest region include $18.5 million for the Cuyahoga Valley National Recreation Area in Ohio; $1 million for the Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore, and $4 million for the Lower St. Croix National Scenic Riverway in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The Midwest Region includes Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Kansas, Missouri, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan.

If the legislation is enacted as proposed, Beal said units in the Midwest Region would receive a total of more than $71 million. He listed the total amounts which NPS unit in each state would receive over the next decade:

Illinois, $1,440,000; Indiana, $12,154,000; Iowa, $1,029,000; Kansas, $4,200,000; Michigan, $9,792,000; Minnesota, $4,438,000; Wisconsin, $6,917,000; Minnesota-Wisconsin, $1,487,000; Missouri, $10,651,000; Nebraska, $1,293,000, and Ohio, $17,732,000.

Made it easier

From 1,500 feet up, Burlington Northern's 250-acre, $43.9 million classification yard at Minneapolis looks like a giant model railroad. The new facility's computerized traffic control system, which processes up to 3,000 freight cars daily, has cut 18 hours off the time required to sort and dispatch the average carload. This has eased the burden on other BN yards from Chicago south to Kansas City, and north into Montana. (UPI)

'Drunken junkie' gets a fresh start after 'miracle trip'

By MARGARET SCHWEIN
Atchison Daily Globe
For The Associated Press

ATCHISON, Kan. (AP) — Despair had bottomed out for Molly, who, at 21, characterized herself as "a drunken junkie."

She'd spent two years in and out of "drying out" institutions, "drinkin' and dopin' — an $80 a day habit — going through hell." Then came what she and others like her refer to as the "miracle trip" to Hope—Valley Hope Alcoholic Treatment Center here.

She, like the others, came with little hope.

"I came here in July—panicky, cynical, thinking: 'what can these shrinks do for me? I know all their games!'"

Then there was Sam, in his 40s. "I had been hiding in a bottle for years. My kidneys have only about two drunks left in 'em, then I'm dead. I can't let that happen."

A Korean War veteran, outgoing, sociable Jim, bolstered by his wife's presence in his third trip to Hope, promised: "It'll stick this time. After 30 years—high school beer busts, college beer busts, low-cost beer and liquor to drink up in the Army, partying back home, sipping at hidden bottles all day—there's got to be something better."

They agree that something better is Hope, and within 30 days begin to see their lives turned around. That's been the case for about 2,000 others with alcoholic and related problems who have used Hope's facilities in the last four years.

"It's knowing that I'm whipped—that I can't be a self-made person," Jim explained. "Forget the wrongs of the past. Turn the problems over to the Guy upstairs and do the best I can each day. It's helping you lick your emotional problems that make the program work here."

Molly describes her Hope experience ... "I found me. I can love others, help others, trust them, because I like my self. It's because of the fantastic loving care, the terrific counselors and chaplains here—it's the great thing they give you in a spiritual life with a loving God—it really works."

Molly, Sam and Jim could have found the same care program and spiritual resources at the 72-bed Valley Hope Treatment Center at Norton, Kan., and the 51-bed center at Cushing, Okla.

They will be assisted in "staying dry" after being dismissed by these same centers, three out-patient Valley Hope centers at Wichita, Abilene and Overland Park, Kan., and also by halfway houses and numerous chapters of Alcoholics Anonymous and Al-Anon (for spouses).

The Valley Hope Association which administers the centers is at Norton, formed there in 1966 in a bowling alley by The Rev. Bob Adams and Dr. Merlynn Colip.

Within a year, the Norton in-patient VH Alcoholic Treatment Center opened in the remodeled rooms of the state hospital. Dr. William D. Leipold, clinical psychologist, became its guiding light.

Now clinical director of the association, Dr. Leipold has pushed establishment of the other centers and a proposed new in-patient center in O'Nell, Neb. He is considered a leading authority in alcoholism rehabilitation and his recently-published book "Walk Through the Valley," is now in its second printing.

The Hope organization has helped more than 10,000 distressed men and women in less than 10 years.

They come from every walk of life, young and old, every color and creed, according to C. L. Engebritson, program director at Atchison.

"I don't have to tell you about our unique care program—every patient will vouch for it," Engebritson said.

And they do—saying thanks with contributions toward the next treatment center, gifts for the local institutions—everything from sodding for the whole campus to a cross for the chapel.

Hope's motel-type dormitories have no locked doors, no barred windows, no straight jackets. The atmosphere is one of love and trust. The cost is about the same as a first class 30-day vacation—about $1,430 per patient. Many insurance companies and private industries help foot the bill.

Engebritson says 75 per cent of the good therapy comes from the patients, adding "We communicate because we're all in the same alcoholic boat."

"Communicating" takes place between counselor and individual patient for at least one period a week, in five different types of group therapy and recreation, 44 lectures—20 dealing with the concept of alcohol from a psychological-medical-religious aspect and 24 on the 12 steps of AA, and a group thing called the "Hot Seat."

"Hot Seat" is the patients term for a therapy session in the last week of treatment.

"You sit there facing the whole room," explains a VH alumna with a remembering shiver, "and read aloud and discuss the liabilities that each patient has written about you. I could take that okay. But when my counselor turned the page and I started reading my assets, I broke down and bawled. She had to read them for me. Then she told me to paste them by my mirror for daily cheer."

Files suit

Actress Rita Hayworth filed suit in superior court Friday seeking $1 million from her former financial adviser and his brother for allegedly misrepresenting a corporation the men owned. Miss Hayworth agreed to invest $50,000 in California Certificate Fund Inc., not knowing the men owned the firm. (UPI)

Take advantage of the versatility of your CB

By Ink Dipper

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Ink Dipper (KYZ-3916) is the handle of the editor of The CB Times-Journal.)

If you're one of those millions who have finally made the move toward having a CB in your four-wheeler, then maybe it's time you hooked a unit up in other areas of your life.

For instance, more and more fishermen are finding that it's much easier to find "where the fish are" with a CB at their side.

For practical purposes you won't be scaring fish away by screaming to a nearby boat to see how the catch is going.

It will also save time from fishing in the wrong place till the sun goes down, and turning in with a dry haul.

And don't minimize the fact that there could be a dire emergency aboard your boat and the only way you could get attention is by setting your boat afire or using CB.

Yes, you'll be able to scream for help from your good buddies, but don't expect to hear from the Coast Guard, if you're in their area.

The only way a CBer can get Coast Guard help is if he also has an FM frequency radio on board or locates one in another boat.

The U.S. Coast Guard refuses to monitor CB because of the many hoaxes they claim have been perpetrated via CB.

So the Coast Guard may not listen to you, but the fish probably will.

Fishermen aren't the only outdoorsmen who find the air waves a help. Have you thought of back-packing with a CB for company?

A hand-held CB transceiver is a self-contained CB radio. You can take it anywhere on a back-packing expedition, from New York's Central Park to the Smokey Mountains.

A walkie-talkie can be bought for as little as $15.95 and up to $149.95. And if you're a member of a family in which everyone likes to route his own course on family outings then stick them all with a CB. It works much better than saying, "Meet you back here at 8:15 p.m." This way you can find out where they are and if they need help.

How about a CB on your two-wheeler (or motorcycle)? It may sound strange, but it can be a life-saver for motorcyclists, just as well as automobile drivers.

Duncan Parks, a 68-year-old man from Watkins Glen, N.Y., made a cross-country trek from his home to California and back. His company for the trip? A motorcycle and his sweet-talking CB, of course.

Parks felt prepared for anything after he put his CB in an old camera case and wore it around his neck with a transistor radio earphone which plugged into his helmet.

"I was going alone," Parks said, "and realizing the vastness of this great country and the possibility of a breakdown. But I got my CB."

Even though you might not be planning to go boating, back-packing or motorcycling right away, you could be just planning to bicycle around the block, and need to be in contact with home.

There's a CB for every occasion and there's no limit to its use for leisure or in an emergency, all it takes is a desire to communicate and a little imagination. (NEA)

In ranks

Navy Seaman Recruit Noal R. Crouch, son of Donald E. Crouch, 116 East Chestnut, is participating in a NATO maritime exercise called "TeamWork '76." He is a crewmember on the frigate U.S.S. Edward McDonnell.

The two-week exercise involves more than 80,000 personnel, 200 surface ships, 30 submarines and 300 aircraft from nine NATO countries and France.

Crouch joined the Navy in January, 1975.

IN A NAME

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — For more than 60 years, John Milton Wallace has been known as "Bob" Wallace.

The reason: as a youngster he got into his share of fights and he had such a peculiar way of bobbing up and down while fighting that he was nicknamed Bobber, which eventually contracted to Bob.

NPS could gain from proposal

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—National Park Service (NPS) units in 10 states of the Midwest Region would share in a 10-year, $1.5 billion Bicentennial Land Heritage Program which President Ford has proposed.

NPS Regional Director Merrill D. "Dave" Beal of Omaha said Ford has asked the Congress to appropriate the funds for expansion, development and upgrading of national parks, recreation areas, wildlife refuges, urban parks and historic parks.

Ford has proposed the immediate appropriation of $110 million from the Land and Water Conservation Fund for NPS land acquisition purposes, Beal said Friday.

Amount earmarked for the Midwest region include $18.5 million for the Cuyahoga Valley National Recreation Area in Ohio; $1 million for the Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore, and $4 million for the Lower St. Croix National Scenic Riverway in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The Midwest Region includes Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Kansas, Missouri, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan.

If the legislation is enacted as proposed, Beal said units in the Midwest Region would receive a total of more than $71 million. He listed the total amounts which NPS unit in each state would receive over the next decade:

Illinois, $1,440,000; Indiana, $12,154,000; Iowa, $1,029,000; Kansas, $4,200,000; Michigan, $9,792,000; Minnesota, $4,438,000; Wisconsin, $6,917,000; Minnesota-Wisconsin, $1,487,000; Missouri, $10,651,000; Nebraska, $1,293,000, and Ohio, $17,732,000.

Made it easier

From 1,500 feet up, Burlington Northern's 250-acre, $43.9 million classification yard at Minneapolis looks like a giant model railroad. The new facility's computerized traffic control system, which processes up to 3,000 freight cars daily, has cut 18 hours off the time required to sort and dispatch the average carload. This has eased the burden on other BN yards from Chicago south to Kansas City, and north into Montana. (UPI)

'Drunken junkie' gets a fresh start after 'miracle trip'

By MARGARET SCHWEIN
Atchison Daily Globe
For The Associated Press

ATCHISON, Kan. (AP) — Despair had bottomed out for Molly, who, at 21, characterized herself as "a drunken junkie."

She'd spent two years in and out of "drying out" institutions, "drinkin' and dopin' — an $80 a day habit — going through hell." Then came what she and others like her refer to as the "miracle trip" to Hope—Valley Hope Alcoholic Treatment Center here.

She, like the others, came with little hope.

"I came here in July—panicky, cynical, thinking: 'what can these shrinks do for me? I know all their games!'"

Then there was Sam, in his 40s. "I had been hiding in a bottle for years. My kidneys have only about two drunks left in 'em, then I'm dead. I can't let that happen."

A Korean War veteran, outgoing, sociable Jim, bolstered by his wife's presence in his third trip to Hope, promised: "It'll stick this time. After 30 years—high school beer busts, college beer busts, low-cost beer and liquor to drink up in the Army, partying back home, sipping at hidden bottles all day—there's got to be something better."

They agree that something better is Hope, and within 30 days begin to see their lives turned around. That's been the case for about 2,000 others with alcoholic and related problems who have used Hope's facilities in the last four years.

"It's knowing that I'm whipped—that I can't be a self-made person," Jim explained. "Forget the wrongs of the past. Turn the problems over to the Guy upstairs and do the best I can each day. It's helping you lick your emotional problems that make the program work here."

Molly describes her Hope experience ... "I found me. I can love others, help others, trust them, because I like my self. It's because of the fantastic loving care, the terrific counselors and chaplains here—it's the great thing they give you in a spiritual life with a loving God—it really works."

Molly, Sam and Jim could have found the same care program and spiritual resources at the 72-bed Valley Hope Treatment Center at Norton, Kan., and the 51-bed center at Cushing, Okla.

They will be assisted in "staying dry" after being dismissed by these same centers, three out-patient Valley Hope centers at Wichita, Abilene and Overland Park, Kan., and also by halfway houses and numerous chapters of Alcoholics Anonymous and Al-Anon (for spouses).

The Valley Hope Association which administers the centers is at Norton, formed there in 1966 in a bowling alley by The Rev. Bob Adams and Dr. Merlynn Colip.

Within a year, the Norton in-patient VH Alcoholic Treatment Center opened in the remodeled rooms of the state hospital. Dr. William D. Leipold, clinical psychologist, became its guiding light.

Now clinical director of the association, Dr. Leipold has pushed establishment of the other centers and a proposed new in-patient center in O'Nell, Neb. He is considered a leading authority in alcoholism rehabilitation and his recently-published book "Walk Through the Valley," is now in its second printing.

The Hope organization has helped more than 10,000 distressed men and women in less than 10 years.

They come from every walk of life, young and old, every color and creed, according to C. L. Engebritson, program director at Atchison.

"I don't have to tell you about our unique care program—every patient will vouch for it," Engebritson said.

And they do—saying thanks with contributions toward the next treatment center, gifts for the local institutions—everything from sodding for the whole campus to a cross for the chapel.

Hope's motel-type dormitories have no locked doors, no barred windows, no straight jackets. The atmosphere is one of love and trust. The cost is about the same as a first class 30-day vacation—about $1,430 per patient. Many insurance companies and private industries help foot the bill.

Engebritson says 75 per cent of the good therapy comes from the patients, adding "We communicate because we're all in the same alcoholic boat."

"Communicating" takes place between counselor and individual patient for at least one period a week, in five different types of group therapy and recreation, 44 lectures—20 dealing with the concept of alcohol from a psychological-medical-religious aspect and 24 on the 12 steps of AA, and a group thing called the "Hot Seat."

"Hot Seat" is the patients term for a therapy session in the last week of treatment.

"You sit there facing the whole room," explains a VH alumna with a remembering shiver, "and read aloud and discuss the liabilities that each patient has written about you. I could take that okay. But when my counselor turned the page and I started reading my assets, I broke down and bawled. She had to read them for me. Then she told me to paste them by my mirror for daily cheer."

'Sex reassignment surgery' the only hope for many

RICHARD SALTUS
AP Science Writer

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — It is a long and lonely journey across the border of sex, but thousands feel they must make the trip.

They are transsexuals, people with the mind of one sex imprisoned in the body of the other. This tragic mismatch can produce a state of misery that drives such people to drastic action: sex change through surgery and a reversal of life styles.

Perhaps 3,000 persons in the United States have been sexually reassigned, as doctors call it, mainly in the last 10 years as the surgery has become widely available. At Stanford University Medical Center, one of the most active institutions in sexual reassignment, more than 150 persons have undergone the hormone therapy and plastic surgery.

Doctors have a hard time evaluating how much transsexuals are helped by the switch, because so many disappear and cut all their old ties.

Nevertheless, the Stanford specialists feel that their patients — carefully selected from thousands of applicants — have generally been helped. Some feel whole and happy for the first time in their lives, showing "major improvements" in sexual function and psychological adjustment, said Dr. Norman Fisk. Vocationally there also is some improvement, said Fisk, a Palo Alto psychiatrist and co-director of the Stanford program.

Few if any regret what they did, he said, though two patients later reverted to their pre-surgical sex roles.

Sexual reassignment is currently performed at some 20 centers in 17 states. One of the pioneering institutions was Johns Hopkins Medical School, where sex-change surgery began in 1966. In an evaluation two years ago, doctors were more qualified in their enthusiasm than are their Stanford counterparts.

Although some of the patients did "extraordinarily well" after surgery, said a Hopkins report, others did "extraordinarily poorly," falling into self-destructive relationships, drug abuse, suicide attempts.

Drs. Jon K. Meyer and John E. Hoopes said a post-surgical euphoria in many patients drained away two to five years later, as they realized the switch was not a cure-all for personal troubles.

"Sex reassignment surgery seems to temporarily palliate an unfortunate emotional state, rather than really cure the problem of gender dysphoria," they wrote.

Gender dysphoria is a term that means unhappiness of an intense and overriding degree about one's sex. In some persons — estimated at one in 10,000 to one in 100,000 births — this dissatisfaction is so strong that there is a feeling of revulsion at one's own sexual organs and a compelling wish to be of the other sex.

These people are called transsexuals. Dr. Renee Richards, the male-to-female eye doctor who recently stirred up controversy in the tennis world by daring to compete as a woman, expressed the transsexual dilemma:

"Emotionally the desire to be a woman and a girl had been a most overwhelming drive ever since I can remember."

The causes of the disorder are not known, though Fisk believes the answer is to be found in the development of the brain before birth.

"My feeling is that it is a biological abnormality; in animals, there's no question it's biological," he said. Injections of male hormones into female animal fetuses have produced masculine behavior in the offspring, for example.

There are far more applicants to centers like Stanford than are accepted. Dr. Fisk is one of the specialists who help evaluate and screen out poor surgical candidates.

Psychotics and publicity seekers are usually rejected, as are people with a collection of psychological problems that they blame entirely on their gender difficulty.

"Our best patients are people who have led reasonably functional lives despite being very unhappy," said Fisk. He said only 10 to 15 per cent are accepted at first, though some of the others manage to rehabilitate themselves enough to be permitted in later.

What about those rejected? Some, said Fisk, find others have less strict standards. Some go abroad, where some surgeons do a brisk business in operations on those who couldn't obtain it in their own countries.

Fisk warns that "there are a lot of charlatans in this business" but he does not imply that private physicians outside the medical centers are generally unqualified.

Hormone therapy and living in the opposite sex role usually begin a year or more before the operation. Dr. Richards, in fact, said her hormone treatments began 12 years before surgery.

In males, the female hormones help to soften the skin and redistribute the body's fat in a womanly way. At the same time, many patients have facial hair removed by electrolysis. This can take 150 to 200 hours and run into thousands of dollars.

Male hormones given to women deepen the voice and bring facial hairs sprouting into mustaches and beards.

This is the crucial time when the patient must learn the behavior of the opposite sex — and not the stereotypes of the sex.

"We do not want people to become caricatures, but to have naturally masculine or feminine behavior," said Fisk.

Drought slowing barge traffic

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Barge traffic has slowed to a crawl on the Mississippi River, resulting in costly delays to towing companies which haul grain, coal and other commodities along the 1,800-mile waterway.

Drought conditions have lowered the river channel to almost unnavigable widths and depths, resulting in countless groundings of tows during the past month, the Coast Guard reports.

"I believe this is the lowest the river's been overall since back in the '60s," a Coast Guard spokesman said.

Low water has also created a serious problem for river cities which depend on the Mississippi for their water supply.

In Minneapolis, where the river stage is the lowest in recorded history, city officials have asked residents to cut down on car washing and lawn sprinkling through October.

The many barge lines using the Misissippi are adversely affected by the low water because of the traffic tieups created by groundings and the necessity to transport smaller tows and lighter loaded barges.

"The low water right now is adding on a five-day trip from St. Louis to New Orleans, one to two days," said Tom Gladders, president of a St. Louis towing company and chairman of the American Waterways Operators-Corps of Engineers liaison committee.

Some companies are reducing the amount of tonnage they carry, but this cuts deeply into profits, according to Jack Bullard, marine superintendent for American Commerical Barge Lines of Jeffersonville, Ind., one of the largest lines on the river.

"Say you cut down each barge on an 18-barge tow six inches," he said. "You've got to add another barge for every 18 barges" to carry the same load.

Bullard noted that before the low river stages set in, American Commercial had eight boats inactive. "After the low water, we've fired up everything that can run."

A spokesman for Agri Trans Corp. of Chicago said the draft of the company's grain boats has been reduced six inches, causing a load loss of 107 tons or 3,500 bushels of grain.

The corporation is an agricultural cooperative hauling grain southbound and fertilizer northbound on the Mississippi.

Agri Trans' largest boat, "Cooperative Spirit," has been restricted from operating above Cairo, Ill., because of lower water levels in the Upper Mississippi.

Three Corps of Engineers dredging boats were working the channel Friday from Cairo to Cape Girardeau, Mo., to maintain the 12-foot channel.

The Coast Guard also has been called into the operation.

"The lowered water level actually shifts the channel," said Lt. j.g. Gabriel Kinney of the Coast Guard. "This means we're having to reposition channel buoys in many areas."

Because of long-term contracts with companies for which they tow barges, the towing firms are now taking the brunt of the losses, Bullard said.

"We'll have to incur it ourselves because they don't have time to move it to the consumer," Bullard said. "Some of the contracts are on a yearly basis and others are month-tomonth. You don't figure these types of things in."

Gladders said it costs as much to move an eight-foot-draft barge as it does to move a nine-footer, "so you're leaving a lot of your profit behind you."

Representatives of the barge and towing industries are scheduled to meet Monday with the Coast Guard and the Corps of Engineers to discuss the outlook.

PIPER PRODUCTION

LOCK HAVEN, Pa. (AP) — The 100,000th Piper airplane, a twin-engine business turboprop, rolled off the assembly line here recently.

Piper Aircraft Corp. says one out of every 10 airplanes ever built in the world has been a Piper and one of every three civil aviation aircraft flying today is a Piper.

Oil divers don't lead a bad life

SUMBURGH, Shetland Islands (AP) — He speaks with a Texas drawl and wears cowboy boots with pointed toes.

His name is Lee Wayne Johnson. He comes from Corpus Christi, and his occupation is deep sea diving in the treacherous North Sea.

"Heck, it's a pretty healthy way of life," said the 39-yearold "aquanaut," as divers are known in these parts.

"We eat a very high protein diet and breathe a lot of pure oxygen. It's not a bad life," said Johnson who heads a team of 21 U.S. and British divers working in the Thistle Oil Field 130 miles northeast of the Shetland Islands, the most northerly of the 14 commercial fields in the British sector of the North Sea.

Their job at the moment is to dive as deep as 530 feet in the frigid waters of the United Kingdom's continental shelf. Thistle lies in the deepest water yet exploited and its 968-foot oil platform, now being completed, will be nearly as tall as the Eiffel Tower.

Burmah Oil of Britain, acting on behalf of U.S. and West German interests, plan to drill up to 60 wells from the platform to tap what it hopes are billions of barrels of oil lying two to three miles beneath the sea.

The North Sea oil boom has attracted many Americans like Johnson, a 15-year veteran of oil industry diving in the United States and Persian Gulf.

"The North Sea is more treacherous and so much rougher and colder than anywhere else I've worked," said Johnson. "Anyone who falls overboard into this water would expire in five minutes."

Even in mid-August the water temperature is 45 degrees and in winter it drops to 38. "It's quite a challenge for any diver," Johnson said.

Sixty divers and other oil rig workers died between 1965 and 1975 in the North Sea.

"Most of these men were inexperienced and probably panicked when something went wrong. Virtually every accident that has been investigated out here can be put down to human error," said Johnson.

Today's divers are better trained and equipped and must meet the strict qualifications of the British government's diving regulations introduced last year, covering a diver's training, age, number of dives, medical checkups and equipment.

Special capsules and minisubmarines are on the drawing boards to enable oil explorers to push out into uncharted waters 2,000 feet deep, handling the jobs now done by divers. But until such techniques are perfected, the industry must rely on divers for essential drilling and pipelaying tasks.

Tigers held to six first downs

Marshall Owls just too much for Smith-Cotton

By RON HIGGINS
Staff Sportswriter

MARSHALL — The Smith-Cotton Tigers ran into a brick wall here Friday night against the Marshall Owls and lost 29-12.

Standout performances by Steve Heinzler (6-2, 225) and Steve Fletcher (6-1, 200) on defense bottled up the Tiger rushing attack while running back Rodney Stephenson (6-2, 183) wore out the turf with 185 yards rushing on 23 carries for the Owls. He had three touchdowns and one two-point conversion to his credit along with a pass reception for 24 yards. Stephenson, in the first half alone, picked up 115 yards on 16 attempts.

Sedalia received the opening kick, but failed to move the ball and had to punt the ball away to the Owls, who marched downfield in 13 running plays for a touchdown on their first possession. Seven of those rushes were credited to Stephenson, who picked up 42 yards in the drive. It all started on Marshall's own 31 yard line.

Quarterback Brett Liesemeyer mixed up the plays well slipping in head coach's Cecil Naylor's favorite play, the wingback counter, once for an eight yard gain by Mark Hartley. The combined running efforts of Stephenson, Hartley and fullback Bill Brown advanced the ball to the Sedalia 2 where Stephenson took a pitch from Liesemeyer and went in for the score with 4:15 remaining in the first period. An illegal procedure penalty against the Tigers on the extra point attempt moved the ball up closer to the goal line and Stephenson took a pitch and rambled around right end for the two-pointer giving the Owls an 8-0 lead.

Taking the following kick, it took only two plays until Brian Buckner fumbled the ball right back to Marshall on Sedalia's own 33-yard line. Guard Tim Aldredge came up with the loose football for Marshall.

Brown carried for the Owls and moved the ball up to the 30 with a three-yard burst and Stephenson ran for 9 yards and a first down to the 21. An equipment infraction against the Tigers moved the ball to the 10 for a first and goal. It took only one play with workhorse Stephenson to carry the ball in for the TD with 2:09 showing on the clock in the first quarter. Liesemeyer kicked for the extra point and the Owls held a 15-0 lead until 4:28 left in the first half.

Taking the ball on their own 40-yard line following a Sedalia punt, the Owls again ate up the yardage and moving steadily downfield. With the ball resting on the Tiger 28, Liesemeyer dropped back to pass, but the onrushing Jerry Anderson knocked the ball loose for the Tigers and defensive end Ernie Poole alertly picked up the loose ball and rambled 66 yards for the first Tiger touchdown. The Tigers failed to pick up the 2-pointer when Eddie Kitchen was tackled short of the end zone. Sedalia trailed 15-6 at the half.

In the first half, Marshall picked up 14 first downs while the Tigers were still looking for their first first down. Sedalia didn't pick up a first down until 8:56 in the third quarter on a six yard run by Buckner.

In 10 first half rushing attempts, Sedalia managed only 9 yards while Marshall picked up 188 yards on 34 rushes. Leisemeyer completed 1-of-7 passing attempts for 24 yards — that to Stephenson late in the half. Kirk Fletcher didn't get a completion on four attempts.

In the second half, after Marshall failed to move the ball and punted to Sedalia, the Tigers took control on the Marshall 49-yard line marking the first time in the game that Sedalia had possession of the ball in Marshall's territory.

Following an 8-yard pass play to tight end Marty Breeze, Fletcher got the Tigers' second first down on an 8-yard scamper down to the 33-yard line. On a third-and-12 from the 35, Dennis Yokeley saved a touchdown on his sparkling defensive play on a pass attempt to Breeze inside the Marshall 10. On the fourth down play, Fletcher's attempted pass fell incomplete and Marshall took over possession.

The Owls set up another scoring drive — this time it took nine plays to reach the end zone. The touchdown came with 10:43 left in the game and Stephenson, again, got the honors with a 1-yard run. Liesemeyer added the PAT and Marshall led 22-6.

Another Marshall TD was in the making after the Owls took out most of their first- stringers. Yokeley hit end Jim Barr with a 39-yard scoring strike with 7:21 left in the fourth period and Liesemeyer added the kick and the Owls increased their advantage to 29-6.

In the closing two minutes of play, Sedalia scored the final touchdown of the game on a Fletcher to Breeze pass play covering 30 yards. However, Breeze's extra point kick attempt was blocked.

Another losing effort was added to Sedalia's long unsuccessful string against the Marshall team. Smith-Cotton has won only one game outright from the Owls since 1961 — that came in '73 when the Tigers claimed a 19-14 verdict. The Tigers were awarded a game in '65 by a forfiet from a 0-0 tie because Marshall used an illegible player in that contest. In 1961, Sedalia won 20-14 over Marshall, but since then, Marshall has tamed the Tigers.

Supposedly, Marshall's weak point was their "young and inexperienced secondary," but against the Tigers, they couldn't have been more impressive. Yokeley, a 5-6, 143-pound sophomore, did an outstanding job defending the pass. He knocked down two passes that could have cost the Owls' defense a couple of TD's.

Sedalia only recorded six first downs in the game while Marshall punched in 20. The Tigers were really outclassed in the rushing department by Marshall — 308 yards on 52 carries by Marshall and only 75 yards on 29 attempts by the Tigers.

A number of Sedalia's penalties (9 for 72 yards) came on equipment infractions.

Stephenson led all rushers with his 185 yards and he was followed by teammate Brown with 85 yards on 18 carries. Sedalia's most successful runner was receiver Keith Fletcher, who had 30 yards on 6 carries.

Stephenson could of had an additional 83 yards to his credit, but his apparent 83-yard TD run with 6:47 remaining in the third quarter was nulified by an illegal procedure penalty charged against the Owls. Take away the ground-eater Stephenson, and the game could have been a bit different in the statistics and possibly the outcome. But those are only "if's," and now the Tigers can only wait for next year.

Chris Evert ...

Connors, Borg clash today

Evert demolishes Goolagong

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Chris Evert solidified her position on the throne of women's tennis Saturday by crushing Evonne Goolagong 6-3, 6-0 in the final of the U.S. Open Championships.

Earlier, Jimmy Connors regained his image as a court killer and Sweden's Bjorn Borg drained the last bit of fire out of temperamental Ilie Nastase to gain the final round in the men's division.

The aggressive American from Belleville, Ill., and the methodical 20-year-old from Stockholm will meet at the West Side Tennis Club Sunday for the $30,000 first prize.

Miss Evert's surprisingly one-sided victory, following triumphs over her Australian opponent in the 1975 Open here as well Wimbledon, hoisted her onto the pinnacle once shared by such tennis greats as Helen Wills Moody, Maureen Connelly and Billie Jean King.

The women's match, last of a straight-set series in the center court, was played before another capacity crowd of 16,244. Unlike their previous meetings here and at Wimbledon, the Evert-Goolagong rerun was quick and merciful.

The graceful Australian, with rare natural talent and a rich repetire of shots, was no match for the icy, computer-like stroke-making Miss Evert from Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

After a shaky start, in which she lost two straight games and won only one point, Chris rallied to take 10 games in a row in the 55-minute match. While she played well, Miss Goolagong practically donated her points with loose, effortless play.

She was uninspired.

Connors played perhaps the finest tennis of his career in smashing Guillermo Vilas of Argentina 6-4, 6-2, 6-1. Borg was almost as devastating in wiping out Nastase 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

"I will never play here again," said Nastase, who created a near riot a week ago with his boisterous and profane behavior on center court in a match against Hans-Jurgen Pohmann of West Germany.

"These crowds are the worst I have ever seen. I can't play my game."

In his match against Borg, Nastase was so proper the crowd sat in disbelief. The single controversial gesture of the match came not from Nastase but from the normally stoical, undemonstrative Borg.

Chiefs, Chargers set to go

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Accenting youth, the San Diego Chargers and Kansas City Chiefs open their 1976 National Football League Season Sunday at Arrowhead Stadium.

Kickoff between the AFC Western Division foes is 2:05 p.m. EDT.

Coming off a 3-3 exhibition season, which was one more victory than they earned all last year, the Chargers are a team in rapid transition.

Only five players remain from the program Tommy Prothro inherited in 1974 and nursed through 5-9 and 2-12 campaigns while patiently building strength through the draft.

Most observers feel this will be the season Prothro and the Chargers begin reaping the benefits of three excellent drafts.

Eleven starters from the 0-11 start of '75 are no longer on the payroll. Since last year Prothro has added 20 new players, including 13 rookies. Three rookies are scheduled to start Sunday against the Chiefs, who struggled through a 2-4 exhibition season amid a rebuilding program of their own.

Paul Wiggin, beginning his second season as head coach, will start four rookies on defense and one, wide receiver Henry Marshall, on offense. first-year players on defense will be Keith Simons at tackle, Tim Collier at left corner, Gary Barbaro at free safety and Steve Taylor at strong safety.

Player evaluation was a top priority during the Chiefs' exhibition season.

"Because of our youth and the number of new people trying to make this team, it was important that we took a good look at a lot of people," Wiggin said. "We did that all preseason, and thus I think e are going to be able to make the right decisions on who to keep."

Wiggin does not expect the Chargers to be the only improved team tn the field.

"I think we are going to be a better football team in 1976," he said. "Right now I don't know how much better. But we will be younger and sounder and I am impressed with the attitude of our players."

The Chargers hold an edge injury-wise. Only Joe Washington, rookie running back from Oklahoma who injured a knee in an exhibition game, will not suit up.

Iowa St. romps, as Kansas St. pulls off upset

Iowa St. 58
Drake 14

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Wayne Stanley terrorized Drake through the air and Buddy Hardeman stung the Bulldogs on the ground Saturday as the quarterbacking duo guided Iowa State to a 58-14 romp in a renewal of an intrastate football series.

Stanley passed for three touchdowns and Hardeman threw for one and ran for another as Iowa State amassed 527 yards total offense in an impressive opening show. It was the first meeting of the two teams since 1965.

Drake errors helped Iowa State break the game open in the second quarter as the Cyclones scored four touchdowns on a total of five plays for a 34-7 advantage.

Iowa State scored on its first four possessions of the second half for a 58-7 lead before Drake could sustain a drive. The Bulldogs fell to 0-2 on the season.

Kansas 35,
Wash. St. 16

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Nolan Cromwell tallied twice and Laverne Smith, closing in on the career rushing record at Kansas, flashed 60 yards for a first-period touchdown Saturday that sparked the Jayhawks to a 35-16 victory over Washington State.

Kansas, 2-0 following a 28-16 triumph last week at Oregon State, spoiled Jackie Sherrill's head coaching debut with a 28-point, first-half barrage that began with the first possession of the day.

On the fifth play from scrimmage, Smith, a senior halfback who entered the game 406 yards shy of the career record set by John Riggins, took a pitchout from Cromwell at the Washington State 40 and skirted right end, sidestepping a tackler at the goal line.

Cromwell, the leading rusher in the Big Eight last year, put the Jayhawks ahead 21-10 in the second period on a 15-yard dash following an inteception by defensive end Greg Jones.

Oklahoma 24
Vanderbilt 3

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Quarterback Dean Blevins directed Oklahoma, the defending national football champion, to three second-half scores as the Sooners overcame a lethargic first half to beat Vanderbilt 24-3 Saturday.

Oklahoma, which has lost only one game the last three years, had a sputtering offense but a defense that showed flashes of brilliance.

The Sooners led 7-3 at half time, making no passing yards, only three first downs and losing two of three fumbles.

But Oklahoma scored the first two times it had the ball in the second half and added a fourth quarter field goal to win going away.

Vanderbilt penetrated inside the Sooner 10-yard line three times during the game but failed to score.

Two of Oklahoma's touchdowns were set up by Vandy fumbles deep in Commodore territory.

Vandy's Martin Cox fumbled a punt at the 10-yard line in the first quarter and Oklahoma's Elvis Peacock scored on a sixyard run three plays later.

K-State 13
BYU 3

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Kansas State accepted a gift touchdown in the second quarter, added two cross-country field goals by Bill Sinovic, withstood Brigham Young's passing onslaught and whipped the Cougars 13-3 in a football season opener Saturday.

The Wildcats, who didn't win a game in the Big Eight last season, collected their touchdown after a bad snap on a punt gave them the ball at the BYU 2-yard line.

Sinovic skipped a school record 58-yard field goal off the crossbar late in the first half for a 10-0 lead and provided the Cats some insurance by booming a 48-yarder in the fourth period.

Okla. St. 33
Tulsa 21

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — A penetrating Oklahoma State defense led by mammoth tackle Phillip Dokes forced a rapid succession of Tulsa turnovers in the third quarter as the Cowboys rebounded from a 6-3 halftime deficit to defeat the Golden Hurricane, 33-21, in a regioally televised football game Saturday.

The Cowboys scored 23 points in a span of less than eight minutes and appeared to have taken command with a 26-6 lead at the end of the third period. But Tulsa, keyed by the passing of quarterback Ronnie Hickerson, wouldn't quit, scoring two touchdowns in the final quarter.

Nebraska 6
Louisiana St. 6

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Unheralded Louisiana State University shocked top-ranked Nebraska with a tenacious defense and a pair of field goals and tied the Cornhuskers 6-6 Saturday night in a college football opener.

Nebraska marched 65 yards with the opening kickoff and scored on a three-yard pass from quarterback Vince Ferragamo to tight end Ken Spaeth.

Mike Conway booted a 35yard field goal with 2:42 remaining in the third quarter and then tied it with 7:09 left in the final period on an 18-yarder.

Texas Tech 24
Colorado 7

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Texas Tech intercepted five Colorado passes, struck for two swift touchdowns and rode the running of Jimmy Williams to a 24-7 intersectional football victory Saturday night.

A record opening game crowd of 44,132 watched the Red Raider defense, led by linebacker Thomas Howard, contantly frustrate the Big Eight school's attack.

Howard, Greg Frazier, Eric Felton and Gary McCright stole four of the first six Colorado pass attempts and Tech used the thefts to mount a stunning 24-0 halftime lead over the favored Buffaloes.

Wishbone whiz

Kansas quarterback Nolan Cromwell (9) heads for a TD in the first half of KU's game against Washington State. Cromwell tallied two touchdowns, as the Jayhawks stopped the Cougars 35-16. (UPI)

Ohio State, Michigan both win

Mich. St. 21

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Jeff Logan, Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin's tailback replacement, bolted for three touchdowns and had a fourth score nullified by a penalty Saturday, helping fourth-ranked Ohio State crush Michigan State 49-21 in a Big Ten football opener.

Logan, a 184-pound junior from North Canton, Ohio, ran 75, 68 and three yards for his touchdowns. He lost another 71yard score as the Buckeyes rolled to their 12th straight conference victory.

Michigan 40
Wisconsin 27

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Tailback Harlan Huckleby scored three touchdowns and quarterback Rich Leach hit wingback Jim Smith with two scoring passes Saturday to lead second-ranked Michigan to a tough 40-27 victory over Wisconsin in their Big Ten collegiate football opener.

The Badgers, who trailed 23-0 after the first quarter, refused to fold, running and passing with relative ease the rest of the way against the touted Wolverine defense.

Mississippi 10
Alabama 7

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Freshman Hoppy Langley kicked a 34-yard field goal in the fourth period Saturday night to give Mississippi's once-beaten Rebels a 10-7 Southeastern Conference upset over sixth-ranked Alabama.

Ole Miss, taking advantage of Alabama's fumble-fingered offense, kept the Crimson Tide shut out until the third quarter, then had enough offense left to drive to the Tide 17 to set up Langley's field goal.

That kick handed Alabama its first SEC loss since a 17-16 defeat by Auburn in 1972. Langley kicked three field goals in Ole Miss' loss to Memphis State last week.

Pitt 31
Irish 10

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Ninth-ranked Pittsburgh turned a pair of interceptions into quick second-period touchdowns and Tony Dorsett tormented Notre Dame again by rushing for 181 yards as the Panthers rolled to a 31-10 victory Saturday, handing the Irish their first opening-game loss in 13 years.

Pitt quarterback Robert Haygood scored twice on one-yard dives just two minutes, 11 seconds apart early in the second quarter after Notre Dame's Rick Slager had passes intercepted by LeRoy Felder and Jeff Delaney in Irish territory.

Boston College 14
Texas 13

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Boston College jumped to a 14-0 lead with the help of a 74-yard touchdown sprint by sophomore Neil Green on the second play from scrimmage and hung on for a 14-13 upset of seventhranked Texas Saturday night in an intersectional football thriller.

The host Eagles stopped a two-point conversion attempt by the Longhorns with 4:38 remaining, then earned the victory as Russell Erxleben's 53yard field goal try sailed to the left with time officially expired.

The Eagles recovered a fumble to stop a Texas drive at their four in the econd period and then marched 96 yards for another touchdown.

House to examine baseball

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baseball's exclusion from the federal antitrust laws will come under close inspection this month when the Select House Committee on Professional Sports begins it second series of hearings.

Chairman B.F. Sisk, D-Calif., has set aside four days to hear from Justice Department antitrust officials, Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, the presidents of the American and National leagues, Lee MacPhail and Chub Feeney, and some baseball owners on how the game would be affected if the sport were covered by antitrust laws.

The Justice Department officials will testify Sept. 16 while the baseball executives and other antitrust witnesses will be heard Sept. 21-23.

Sisk said eight days of hearings, scheduled over the next three weeks, will begin Wednesday with Charles H. Morin and James R. Ritche, chairman and executive director, respectively, of the National Gambling Commission scheduled as witnesses.

Sisk said the hearings in September are being held primarily to review problems facing professional sports and the federal laws under which they operate.

The committee intends to study seven major areas — gambling, communications, safety, immigration, labor-management, tax treatment and antitrust.

The Select committee was created last June after baseball owners refused to expand and put a team in the nation's capital, which has been without a club since the Washington Senators were moved to Texas in 1971.

Sisk, who headed an ad hoc legislative committee which attempted to return baseball to Washington, has made it clear that he will use the sports panel to pressure baseball officials to put a team in Washington.

Though the 13-member committee can not create legislation, it can make a report to the House and propose legislative recommendations.

On Aug. 10, four members of the committee urged that legislation be enacted to remove major league baseball's exemption from federal antitrust laws.

Baseball is the only professional sport with antitrust immunity, having received its special status in 1921 from a Supreme Court decision that held baseball was a sport rather than a business. That decision has twice been reaffirmed, with the high court saying if Congress wants to change it, legislation should be enacted.

Chief backer of the legislation is Rep. Gillis Long, D-La., who has made it clear he wants a team for the Superdome in New Orleans.

"The committee has received testimony that baseball's protection has resulted in unfair treatment of players and in a refusal to fill the void in American cities where the fans are begging for major league baseball," said Long.

Jeff City captures S-C cross country invitational

Southeast High School's Willis Ware and Eric Lynk took the first two places Saturday in the Smith-Cotton Cross Country Invitational, but it wasn't enough to overcome a strong showing by Jefferson City, which took team honors.

Ware finished first, covering the 2.4 mile course at Elm Hills Golf Course in 12:35.8. Lynk was second with a 12:38 and Tom Wallen of Raytown was third in 12:40.

Jefferson City, which won with 61 points, picked up a sixth from Dan Ragland, a ninth from Don Davis, and 12th and 13th by Dave Banghart and Dan Sullivan.

Smith-Cotton, buoyed by a 10th place finish by Brian Dickmann in a time of 12:50, finished sixth in the 11 team field with 149 points.

In the Division B schools, Russellville had runners in the second, third, sixth, eighth and ninth places, for a winning total of 28 points. Crocker was second with 46 and Leeton finished third with 85 points.

Kent Moss, from Crocker, was the individual winner with a time of 13:25.8. Curt Brumley finished second in 13:29 and Curt Fischer was third in 13:33.

In the junior varsity competition, Jefferson City totally dominated, capturing the top seven places, except for fourth. Kent Denny finished first in a time of 13:18.3, followed closely by Keith Denny with a time of 13:19.

The Jays ended up with a mere 17 points. 15 points is a perfect score. Raytown South again finished second with 70 points, and Van Horn was third with 74.

Mark Kelchner was the top JV runner for S-C, finishing 19th in a time of 14:31.

NFL appeals judges decision

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League, citing a "further judicial inroad on its ability to maintain a balanced level of competition," said Saturday it will appeal "at least portions" of a federal court ruling which declared its college draft illegal.

Last Wednesday in Washington, U.S. Dist. Court Judge William Bryant declared the league's draft in violation of antitrust laws, calling it a group boycott by the 28 clubs. NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle made the announcement of the league appeal.

Bryant's ruling was the third major courtroom setback for the NFL in recent years. In 1974, a federal judge in San Francisco ruled the standard player contract illegal. And last year, a federal judge in Minneapolis did the same with the Rozelle Rule, under which the commisioner set compensation when a club signed a player who had played out his option with another team. Both of those decisions are under appeal.

"The current system," Bryant said of the draft, "is absolutely the most restrictive one imaginable. It leaves no room whatever for competition among the teams for the services of college players and utterly strips them of a measure of control over the marketing of their talents ... There is no question that the restrictions comprising the draft are naked restraints of trade with no purpose except stifling of competition."

The judge's ruling came in a 1970 suit filed by former Washington defensive back James "Yazoo" Smith, the Redskins' No. 1 pick out of the University of Oregon in the 1968 draft.

Royals rally to beat Twins 8-6

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Amos Otis capped a five-run ninth inning with a three-run homer to rally the Kansas City Royals to an 8-6 victory over the Minnesota Twins in a nationally televised game Saturday.

Kansas City's victory snapped the Twins' six-game winning streak and gave the hard-pressed Royals only their third victory in the last 13 games.

The Royals, frontrunners in the American League West, now lead Oakland by 5½ games. The A's met Texas Saturday night.

The Twins had taken a 6-3 lead in the eighth before the Royals tagged Twins reliever Bill Campbell for five hits, including Otis' game-winning blast, his 17th homer of the year.

Al Cowens led off the ninth with a single and, with one out, went to third base on Frank White's single. Successive singles by pinch-hitter Jamie Quirk and Jim Wohlford narrowed the gap to 6-5 before Otis' clutch shot to deep left field.

Reliver Mark Littell picked up his eighth victory in 11 decisions. Campbell, 15-5, took the loss for Minnesota.

Kansas City jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first on a run-scoring double by George Brett and a single by John Mayberry. Brett's hit scored Jim Wohlford, who had singled and stole second, and Otis came home on Mayberry's hit after being hit by a pitch from Bill Singer.

The Royals picked up a run in the second when Frank White blooped a double and scored on Buck Martinez' single.

Kansas starter Doug Bird gave up a bases-loaded walk to Larry Hisle and Dan Ford's two-run single in the fourth. The Twins went ahead 4-3 in the fifth when Rod Carew doubled to the base of the center field wall and came home on Lyman Bostock's sharp single to right.

Ford continued his torrid hitting against Kansas City with three runs batted in. Ford, who had five RBIs in Minnesota's 18-3 rout of Kansas City Friday night, had two singles and a triple Saturday.

Southpaw pitcher Jon Matlack of the New York Mets won eight of his first nine decisions this season.

Fiery Fall Fashions

Typical of all high school girls, Georgia McKinzie, Linda Glenn and Julie Bazin are busy getting together a fall wardrobe to take them to the many activities they will be involved in this season.

Left, Georgia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. McKinzie Jr., 811 Ruth Ann Dr., wears a classic blazer suit. Its rust blazer and new longer skirt are accented by a brown, rust and white print blouse.

Linda, center, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Glenn, 2415 West First St. Terrace, will steal the scene in this take-off on the pantsuit idea. The key word is gauchos marching along with a belted jacket. The green corduroy outfit shows a western influence in the cut of the jacket yoke. Her green scenic print blouse accents her outfit.

Julie, daughter of Joe Bazin, 1113 West Third, wears classic royal blue pants that add up to a sensational look when matched with a blue and plum striped sweater atop a blue turtleneck. This outfit will take Julie many places during her busy fall season.

Local models from Sedalia stores were photographed at various locations including the County Courthouse, Municipal Building, Liberty Park, the Highway Gardens on the Missouri State Fairgrounds, Sedalia Central Fire Station, and the Ramada Inn.

The Democrat-Capital would like to thank all the merchants and models for their participation and cooperation in preparing this special section. Also a special thanks to the Sedalia Fire Department and Sacred Heart High School for their help.

We hope this section will be a useful guide in planning fall and winter wardrobes for the whole family.

Washable suede

Mrs. Peter Holloway models this V-neck jumpsuit with the look of suede, but washable. The jumpsuit from Merle Norman is rust with a beige cowl neck blouse. Gold earrings complete her ensemble.

Warm and snuggly

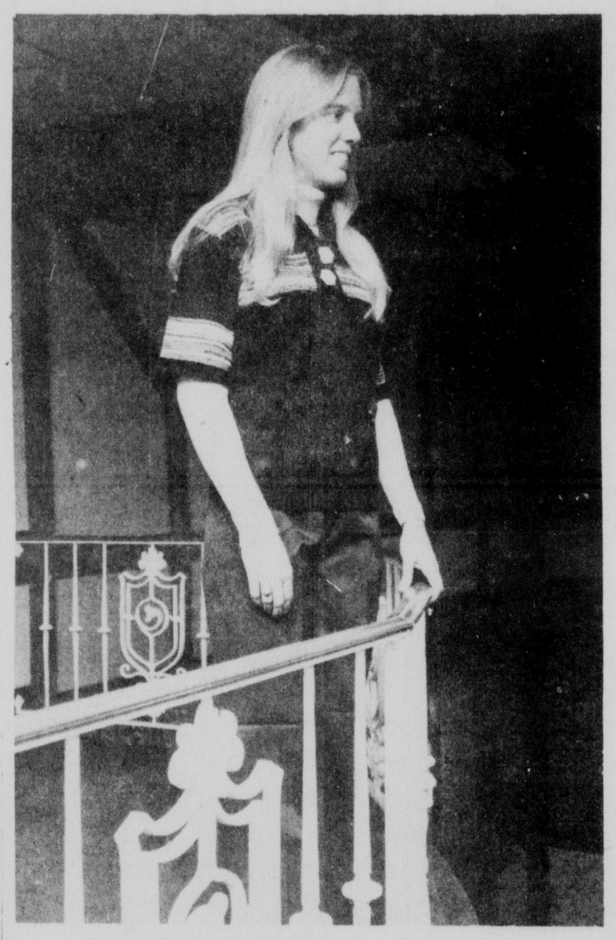
This beige wrap-style coat from Dora's will keep Terri Kelley, 207 Driftwood, warm all winter. The coat features a shawl collar of white fur, slash pockets and front and back knife pleats in the flared skirt.

Border design

Cindy Kinslow, 1803 South Missouri, models coordinating separates for Dora's. The fashion pant of honey-color woven fabric is complimented by a rust cowl dropped turtleneck sweater topped by a honey sweater with a jacquard border design in rust and black. Her handbag of rust leather and her matching strapped stacked-heel shoes are from Bopps Shoes.

Aztec influence

Barbara Hughes, 209 West 11th, modeling for Mode O' Day, wears a two piece outfit exemplifying the Aztec influence on fall's styles. The ecru top is styled with a V-neckline banded in the striped fabric of the tie belt and bias skirt.



Sweater weather

Nancy Seifner, Route 2, prepares for autumn's coolness with this two-piece sweater set made of 100% acrylic from K-Mart. The half-sleeve sweater is highlighted by the white and brown stripes across the shoulders and arms.

Apple-a-day applique

Montgomery Ward model Lisa Myers, 817 West Fifth, is wearing a pinafore and sweater set. The turtleneck sweater is white polyester. The blue ruffled pinafore has an apple applique on the bib. Fine wale cotton and polyester corduroy makes this outfit easy care.

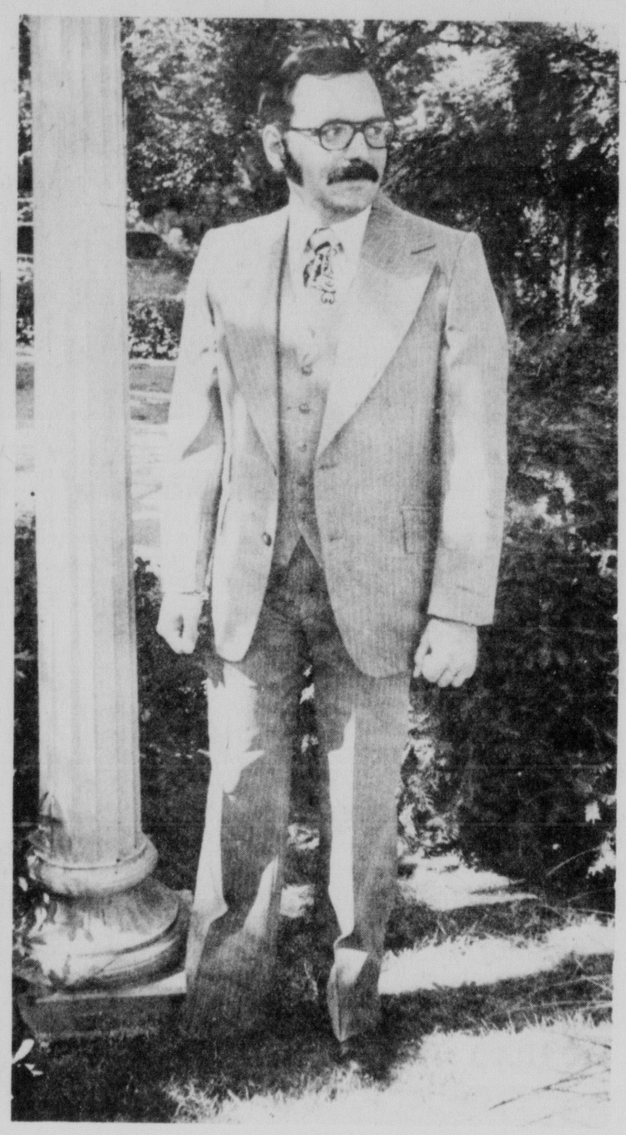
The colors of fall

Left, Susan Marino, 408 West Fourth, shows off fall's basic color of brown for Roths. Solid brown pants are topped with this hooded multi-stripe pullover sweater accented by a frog closing. A solid brown turtleneck finishes off the group for those cool fall days. Mrs. Carlyn Crawford, Route 3, models a pantsuit in contrasting shades of green. Light green pants are topped by a hunter green blazer with pocket and button detailing. A sleeveless striped shell and solid dickie will add just the right touch for any occasion.



Going in style

Don Crouse, Route 6, is ready for autumn action in this three-piece vested pinstrip suit made of texturized polyester from J. C. Penney.

Snug as a bug

Mrs. Judy Payne, Route 5, is planning an evening by the fireplace when the snow falls. This hearth warmer in earth red with off-white lace trim is made of a soft fleece Arnel triacetate and nylon. From That Extra Size Shop.

Where's my horse?

Michael Hughes, 209 West 11th, is ready for action this fall in a quilted western shirt and denim jeans from Kings Court Factory Outlet. All he needs to complete the western look is a horse.

Fall thoughts

With falls plans blooming, Debbie Figge, 238 State Fair, chose this pinstrip look in dusty blue and white from J.C. Penney. Her navy, high-tongue shoes, also from Penney's, feature gold trim on the toes and heels. A gold tone buckle accents the vamp.

Femininity and opulence reign in Paris styles

By Rosetie Hargrove

PARIS — (NEA) — Is Paris haute couture a bellwether of things to come economically? During recent 1976-77 collections by top creators opulence was rampant, more than anytime during the last three decades. Seemingly oblivious to ever-rising costs, the leaders in high fashion put yards and yards of deluxe wools and silks — draped, pleated and bias-cut — into many models with a quasi-regal air.

The message, which rang loud and clear, was that the era of unisex fashion is over. Enter the real woman — seductive, sensuous, exciting. There were no revolutionary changes, though, but a constant regard for refinement and ease of movement. The longer line with hems hovering above and below the calf was unanimously adopted.

Pants still share honors with dresses where the tubular has given way to fullness through the torso or at the hipline. Haute couture left easy effects and folklore to ready-to-wear designers.

The leaders played their trumps, i.e., a definite elegance plus luxurious perfection underlined by colors as bright as a cageful of parrots. The very feminine ostrich feather trimming took on a new look by being used in fronds which in some models covered a dress from tip to toe. Passementerie-trimmed coats and fashioned belts and embroidery formed mosaics on a bodice but was generally used sparingly. All designs show it is definitely the end of the era of blue jeans and sloppy sweaters.

The star fabrics for evening included taffetas, faille and velvet, lamc chiffons, organza, crepe satin and crepe de chine. For daytime, beautifully soft and supple wools, jerseys in all weights, cashmere, angora wools, paisley and horizontally striped, colorful tweeds.

This 40-year-old creator built his collection on one basic shape, almost always as separates, not as a dress. It's a swirling midi-skirt clinched in at the waist with a richly embroidered belt or cummerbund topped by a big-sleeved blouse, plus an edge-to-edge padded jacket with a giant fringed shawl for extra warmth, plus a scarf in bright paisley wool wrapped around one shoulder or around the head and neck. The Russian touch is certainly there. In fact, Yves proposes a sort of Oriental doll-type woman with Anna Karenina reminiscences galore. His colors are stinging like fuchsia, petrol blue, crimson, often two, three or more colors on one model as in a swooping black taffeta evening gown with stressed waistline and giant "minicello" sleeves in petrol blue satin and a cerise belt. Some dresses looked like galleons in full sail and the practical-minded wondered about packing these modern crinolines.

There were high crushed leather boots for day and in silver and gold kid for evening.

Cardin's production seemed beamed at another space age. He cuts everything on the diagonal with full-gathered bat sleeves coupled to just-over-the-knee skirts. In contrast there were tailored suits in wool barathea like those worn by women executives back in the fifties.

However, Dior's masculine trouser suits are for the idealized slim, young and beautiful woman. Then there are the anoraks in waterproof silk, some mink-lined for evening, the long tunic over pants, the full tent coats. Pleated skirts soften the sober side of the jackets. And for evening designer Marc Bohan slices many long, lean-figured satin or chiffon sheaths right up to the thigh.

Lanvin dresses "starry" ladies and the collection was certainly dedicated to the "price is no object" class. Hems here are definitely below the calf and coats are replaced by voluminous capes, some two-tiered and all hemmed in silver fox which is used lavishly, even on peasant skirts.

For Patou, designer Tarlazzi used generous yardage of wool jersey, layers of chiffon or slinky satin. His day version is like a blanket with nary a seam. He bids adieu to set-in sleeves, collars, darts, seams.

Pierre Balmain again produced clothes which always win a husband's approval for their understated elegance. His suits are definitely unmasculine with skirts emphasizing hips under short semi-fitted jackets piped in a darker color. For warmth there are the Balmain winding stoles 12 feet long, and in the Hollywood star mood a pure white wool outfit smothered in fox, a black velvet suit with pearl satin collar, many sheaths pailleted, or beaded, contrasting with sweeping "infanta" gowns in luscious jewel-toned satins. His conversation piece — jersey gaiters in the same color as the blouse — to wear as alternatives to the ubiquitous boots.

Meanwhile Givenchy's collection is a hymn to the svelte silhouette. A great number of his tunic dresses have belts for contrast, sometimes marking a raised waistline. Givenchy also combines tunics with straight slim skirts, long and short, or with pants, all offering an artistic whole in the mingling of muted and violent colors.

Zoot suit

Chapman's model Miss Giana Snyder, Route 2, shows a grey, pinstripe menswear suit of polyester flannel. The fashion look of the 20's is recaptured in the wide lapels of the jacket, the deep-cut vest, the "zoot suit" pant and the long sleeve polyester blouse.

Skiing anyone?

College bound

Ready to start college in this 100% cotton jeans and jacket is Dana Close, Green Ridge, modeling for That Extra Size Shop. The slacks are stitched with french seams and the jacket has a matching seamed yoke and pockets. Her green outfit is completed by a scoop neck T-shirt.

Stepping in style

On the left, "Baroque," is a Town and Country Shoe in rust leather with a stack heel. Right, "Elegant" is in falls best material black suede with a gold tip on the toe and a strap fastening at the instep.

Fun in the park

Carol Stevens and her daughter Mendi enjoy the remaining warm weather by going to the park together. Mendi's polyester knit slacks in rust, tan and beige, and her long sleeve scoop neck knit top in beige are from Ashley's Outlet. Mrs. Stevens wears dark green polyester slacks with a long sleeve polyester blouse in dark and light green and white.

Familiar jeans

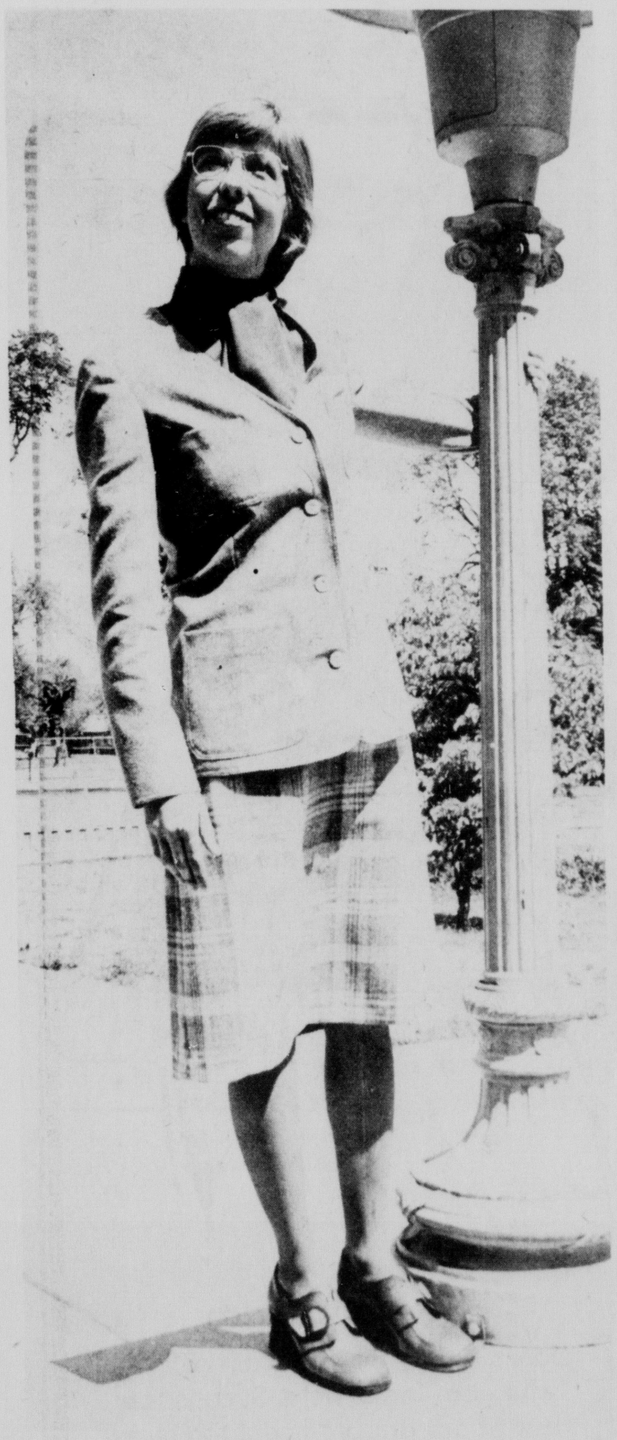
The ever popular indispensable prewashed jeans are worn here by Carolyn Young, Route 4, modeling for Mode O'Day. With the jeans she wears a tailored poly-cotton top.

Vested interest

Miss Camye Callis wears a pale blue plaid suit for the C. W. Flower Co. The jacket is in a classic blazer styling with a matching vest and bias-cut skirt. She coordinates it with a heather blue turtleneck sweater and tan waxed leather shoes styled with wooden platforms.

Politicing or partying

Miss Marcia Swisher and Don Trusty are ready to support their favorite candidates or go to a party in their new fall clothes from Flower II. Marcia is wearing a fitted green and brown wool plaid hacking jacket and matching vest. A pair of slim brown trousers, an off-white turtleneck sweater and brown leather shoulder bag complete her ensemble. Don wears a tan vested gabardine suit in a fitted European styling with deep side-vented coat. The shirt is a tan and brown stripe with a harmonizing patterned tie.



Washable wool

To really get the fall term of college going, Miss Linda Simon, LaMonte, wears this washable wool go-together jacket and skirt that she created herself with fabric from the House of Fabrics.

SOCIETY

The new day

I opened the door and stepped outside,
Cool and fresh was the air,
'Twas early morning, nobody about,
And I wanted to stay out there,
So I sat on the porch and watched the sun
Embroidering the few clouds with gold,
There in the stillness and calm I sat
Watching the morning unfold.
The birds not singing but chirping a bit
Flying from branch to branch in the trees
And for all of the drought there was dampness it seemed
As the leaves were stirred by the breeze.
The small clouds drifted higher now
And o'er tree tops was begun,
With its curved edge now in view,
The rise of the gold-red sun.
How quickly it seemed to develop
Into a big yellow ball
Even so early giving warmth
And spreading its light over all,
Here on a Sunday morning
As the sun was moving up
The children of the neighborhood slept
And there was no sign of the pup,
The little black pup that raced around
With the children just before night
Was in his bed asleeping
Till the sun was high and bright,
But not the cat, soft and white,
Picking its way 'round the yard
For it takes life a bit slower,
It plays but not quite so hard.
A car passed by, then another,
A boy on a bicycle, too,
The stillness was being broken
And the sky was not quite so blue,
So I went into the house again
For the sun was well on its way
But I had watched the beginning
Of another God-given day.

Miss Sandra Irene Middleton

The engagement of Miss Sandra Irene Middleton to Kenneth A. Kinshella, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kinshella, 328 West Third, is announced by the parents of the bride-elect Mr. and Mrs. William S. Middleton, Warsaw. Miss Middleton, a 1974 graduate of Warsaw High School, graduated from State Fair Community College in 1976. Her fiance, a 1968 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, is employed by painting contractors in Knob Noster.

A Sept. 24 wedding at the United Methodist Church, Warsaw, is planned.

Miss Julie Ann Meyer

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Meyer, Creighton, and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Allee, Route 5, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their children, Julie Ann Meyer to Ronald Lee Allee.

The prospective bride is a junior at Central Missouri State University majoring in speech and dramatic arts. Her fiance is a 1975 graduate of CMSU. He is an assistant manager at Westboro-Tarkio Agri Services in Westboro.

A Dec. 4 wedding is planned.

In the swing of things

Miss Jacqueline Ives gets into the swing of fall with her beige pin-striped jacket and slacks. She made the outfit with fabric from the House of Fabrics, 215 South Ohio.

Sedalia couple joins in marriage

Colbert-Burks

Bertha Mae Colbert became the bride of James R. Burks at 2 p.m. Saturday at the home of the groom's sister.

The bride was given in marriage by Fred Schales, Warsaw.

Attending the couple were William Burks, brother of the groom, Mrs. William Burks, Mrs. Ruby Bronkhorst, Mrs. Violia Know, and Mrs. Polly Burks, mother of the groom.

The groom is employed by the City of Sedalia.

The couple will be at home at 900 East Seventh.

What to wear

You don't always have to wear a turtleneck sweater under a jacket. A soft, woolen or cashmere crewneck provides the newest look.

meeting adjourned

Mrs. Martin Moser was installed as president of the Missouri Pacific Women's Club Sept. 6 at State Fair Restaurant.

Other new officers of the club are Mrs. William Schutt, secretary; Mrs. John Goddard, treasurer; and Mrs. Ira Leiter, parlimentarian.

The out-going president, Mrs. O. C. Blankenship, was honored with a gift. Thirty-one members and guests attended the meeting.

Smithton alumni to reunite

SMITHTON — The Smithton High School Alumni Association is planning a reunion for all 60 graduating classes on Dec. 28.

To date, 376 reservations from 22 classes have been received. Mrs. James Lloyd Bass, interim secretary of the steering committee for the reunion, reported that it is necessary that these tentative reservations be turned in as soon as possible in order for the committee to find a location for the banquet.

Those alumni of Smithton High School who have not been contacted by the class chairman may call in reservations at 343-5519 by Sept. 25, according to Mrs. Bass.

Any classes that have not already turned in the 8 x 10 composite for the alumni picture display should do so as soon as possible.

Canning experts warn against unsafe methods

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Many first-time home canners may get off to a bad start if they are using methods found in grandma's recipe book, caution food experts in several books. Grandma may have been a whiz at measurements, a pinch of this and a lump of that, but the leeway she took in home canning may not necesarily be safe.

For that matter, even methods to be found in older cookbooks and some printed in the '70s may be in error. So say food and nutrition specialists Louise W. Hamilton, Gerald D. Kuhn and Karen Rugh in a book, "Home Canning, The Last Word," they put together with editors of the Farm Journal.

That trio emphasizes that open kettle canning by dishwasher — people do it — and canning with aspirin to change the acidty of food are unsafe practices. Then, too, some new jar lids that recently came on the market when lids were scarce do not "consistently seal or maintain a seal."

After considerable investigation, too, of the new tomato varieties and their relationship to a possible outbreak of botulism, it has been decided that home canned tomatoes spoil because heat sterilization time was too short, they say.

Open kettle canning, a method that is particularly popular with jelly makers — the food is cooked in open kettles and packed boiling hot in sterilized jars and quickly sealed — is no longer recommended, not even for jams and preserves, they point out, explaining "the unsafe practice has resulted in food spoilage and even botulism." It has been established that heating food in open kettles will not destroy spoilage organisms.

This knowledgeable group also does not encourage sealing jams and jellies with paraffin. The natural acidity of the fruit plus sugar helps preserve these foods, but it doesn't prevent molds from developing and "we are just beginning to recognize hazards to humans and animals from eating mycotoxins produced by molds," they emphasize.

They also caution "never can anything in any kind of oven, conventional or microwave." Heat distribution is uneven so the center of some jars may never reach the sterilization point. Then, too, glass jars may not tolerate unbalanced high internal pressure in a dry oven and an explosion might result. Lids may not seal properly and metal (in jar lids) should not be used in microwave ovens.

Unlike acid foods — most fruits, tomatoes, sauerkraut and pickle — which may be safely canned in a boiling water canner, the low acid foods that support the growth of clostridium botulinum and other heat-resisting bacteria must be heat sterilized at temperatures higher than boiling water and only in a pressure canner, they maintain.

Low acid foods include asparagus, green or wax beans, beets, carrots, mushrooms, potatoes, soup, squash, tomato sauce with meat, chicken or rabbit, chopped meat, meat strips or cubes, sausage. The starchy low-acid foods — corn, lima beans, peas, pumpkin — and closely packed leafy vegetables such as spinach require even longer sterilizing times because heat penetrates more slowly and takes longer to reach a high enough temperature to the center of the jar.

Even if safety precautions are observed, home canned vegetables, meats and poultry should be boiled at least 10 minutes before being served to destroy neurotoxins responsible for botulism, they point out.

It doesn't take more than a taste to kill, declare Hassell Bradley, and Carole Sundberg in their well researched book, "Keeping Food Safe." They emphasize that controlled experiments at the University of Michigan have shown that onetrillionth part of a gram of pure botulism toxin is enough to kill.

Far more botulism poisoning is caused by improper home canning than commercial canning, they point out, and it isn't always the low acid foods that are responsible. There have been instances of poisoning from tomatoes, apricots, pears and peaches which had been grossly underprocessed, "thus allowing the growth of other microorganisms to aid growth and toxin production."

This book, a guide to the handling, preparing, preserving, freezing and storing of food, is a storehouse of information for the cook who wants to know how long she can store hamburger and how to thaw foods without contaminating them. Poisons and infections and their symptoms are provided and life-saving rules are given. A chapter on how to choose meat and vegetables and how to store them is included.

Area couples begin wedded lives

Oswald-Schilb

Honeymooning at the Lake of the Ozarks are the former Mrs. Peggy Oswald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Cunningham, Smithton, and Robert Schilb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jewell Schilb, 407 West 21st, following their 8 p.m. Friday wedding at First Baptist Church.

The Rev. Lawrence Stewart performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with yellow and white gladioli and daisies. Miss Elaine Rehmer, pianist, accompanied Miss Kim Sartain as she sang the wedding music.

The bride wore a white polyester gown styled with an empire waist and bodice trimmed with yellow lace and small white daisy trim. The dress featured a floor-length flared skirt and long sleeves gathered at the wrist. A white hat completed her ensemble.

Miss Kimberly Cunningham, niece of the bride, was the flower girl and Abraham Oswald, son of the bride, was the ringbearer.

Georg Marcum was the best man. Gary Schilb, brother of the groom and Ronald Cunningham, brother of the bride, were the ushers.

The bride is a graduate of Smithton High School. The groom, a graduate of Smith-Cotton high School and State Fair Community College, is employed by Tip-Top Plumbing and Heating, Kansas City.

The couple will be at home in Grandview.

Kirchhoff-Crawford

NELSON—The home of the bride's parents formed the setting for the 8 p.m. Aug. 27 wedding of Loretta Kirchhoff and Richard Crawford.

The Rev. Alfred Bunch performed the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Kirchhoff, Nelson, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Crawford, Lincoln.

White Gladioli, yellow spider mums and daisies were the decorations as Mrs. Betty Thomas played the piano.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown styled with a square neckline and sheer cuffed sleeves. Daisy trim edged the natural waistline and the hem and chapel train of the A-line skirt. Her three tier illusion was secured by a lace covered head piece.

Miss Teresa Kirchhoff attended her sister as maid of honor She wore a backless floor-length dress of orange crepe with a sheer floral print cape. Mrs. Betty Brooks, sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid and wore a dress identical to that of the maid of honor.

Miss Denise Kirchhoff, sister of the bride and Mrs. Ann Sellers were the candlelighters. Tina Gay Grapes, cousin of the groom was the flower girl.

Karl Kirchhoff served as best man. Phillip Thornton was the groomsman and David Kirchhoff was the usher.

Cooper-Drake

STOVER—Miss Lila Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cooper, Stover, and John E. Drake, son of Mrs. Katherine Drake, Montrose, were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony Aug. 28 at the United Methodist Church here.

Yellow, orange and bronze mums and potted ferns formed the altar setting as the Rev. P. H. Wilbanks performed the ceremony. Mrs. Tom Guthrie provided the wedding music.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father and she wore a gown of ivory poly sheer over satin. Venise lace trimmed the czarina bodice, empire waist, stand-up collar and cuffs of the bishop sleeves. The full skirt fell into a chapel train and was edged in Venise lace. Her fingertip veil of ivory illusion was held in place with a Camelot headpiece trimmed with lace.

Mrs. Don Hilgert, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor and wore a floor-length pale yellow gown styled with a Queen Anne neckline and slim A-line skirt.

Flower girls were Jennifer Eddy and Teresa Cooper, nieces of the bride.

Tim Powell served as best man and candlelighters and ushers were Randy Welpman, cousin of the bride, Ken Cooper, brother of the bride, and Denny Powell.

The bride was graduated from Southwest Missouri State University in 1974 and received her Master's Degree in remedial reading from Central Missouri State University in 1976. She is a remedial reading teacher in the Clinton Elementary School. The groom attended Central CMSU and is engaged in the insurance business in Clinton.

The couple will be at home in Clinton.

Send cookie mix to kids

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

About 10 years ago when my niece and her husband were living in Chicago, I mailed their son — then five years old — a bag of Homemade Cookie Mix from my New York test kitchen so he and his mother could stir up some cookies. And I wrote a column about it, giving the recipe.

Because the present was a big success, it occurred to me that there's a new crop of small boys and girls who would appreciate such a gift, should a new crop of aunts or grandmothers enjoy bestowing it. We retested the Mix recipe and found it as good as ever. Anyone who sends it as a gift should of course enclose directions for making it into cookies.

HOMEMADE COOKIE MIX

2½ cups flour, stir to aerate before measuring
1 cup raisins
1 cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces

Sift together the flour, soda and salt; stir in the sugars. Cut in the shortening until blended. Thoroughly stir in the oats. Makes about 10 cups.

Measure half of Mix (about 5 cups) into a plastic bag; add ½ cup of the raisins and ½ cup of the chocolate pieces; close bag tightly. Turn the remaining Mix, raisins and chocolate pieces into another bag and close tightly. May be stored at room temperature for several weeks.

To bake cookies, empty one bag of the cookie mix into a bowl; with a wooden spoon, make a "hole" in the center; into the hole drop 1 egg, 1/3 cup milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla; with the spoon or a fork mix the liquids well, gradually stirring in the dry ingredients. Drop by teaspoonfuls, a few inches apart, onto ungreased cookie sheets. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven 12 to 15 minutes. Remove to wire racks to cool. One bag of Mix makes about 4½ dozen cookies.

(Note: Butter or margarine may be substituted for the shortening but in this case the Mix will have to be refrigerated and can not be mailed.)

sugar
1½ cups solid white shortening
3½ cups quick-cooking oats

Steam set

Before getting into the shower, why not put your hair in curlers and let the steam set the curls.

Earrings smaller

Protect nails

To protect nails, don't use them to open bobby pins and such. Use your fingertips instead.

Frozen Chinese-style pea pods benefit from being cooked, after they are thawed, in a little oil. When prepared this way they stay crisper than when they are cooked in water — as package directions sometimes suggest.

Medicine changes with the times

By CYRENE DEAR

The Apostle Luke was a physician. He represents one of the oldest professions known to man. In the book of Ecclesiastes, one of the books of the Apocrypha (the hidden books of the Bible) the author writes in 38.1-15, "if a man is sick he should pray, cleanse his heart from sin and offer sacrifice, but he must put himself in the hands of a physician for God created physicians." The dedicated physician, even in this day, may remind himself that he is one of God's special creations, but modern medicine has added to the art of medicine the concept that the physician is known by the extent of his practice, the fees he charges and more important by the service he renders the patient.

In most medical colleges and universities the Hippocratic oath is still read at the graduation exercises. Many actually take the oath which embodies the duties as a physician. Hippocrates did not write the oath; he is reputed to have lived 357 B.C. and is known as the father of medicine.

The art and practice of medicine has changed a great deal since the time of Hippocrates. It now requires almost a dozen years from the time a student decides to study medicine until he hangs out his shingle to practice. Although he is required to study the whole body and the various diseases which attack it, many doctors have come to the conclusion that it is almost impossible to be a general practitioner.

In the past many patients thought when they went to an internist he could diagnose and prescribe most common ailments, and they felt secure in knowing that they had a doctor. But a very prevalent evil has changed that. Most doctors are now afraid to treat any ailment outside of their specialty, because of the possibility of a malpractice suit. Hence the internist suggests that the patient see a gynecologist, orthopedist, cardiologist, urologist, dermatologist, or you name it, and nearly always suggest an x-ray or the hospital for a series of tests. The result is that the patient gets billed by the internist as well as the specialist or consultant. This practice has now facetiously become known as ping-ponging, but only a few doctors are guilty.

Malpractice is not the only involvement the physician faces. Medicare has its important services but also its temptations. Several years ago when Medicare was new many doctors screamed that the country was going into socialized medicine. Not long afterwards, it was it was obvious that these same doctors were finding Medicaid and Medicare a great advantage and they raised their fees accordingly. They enlarged and redecorated their offices, they added a person to do the paperwork which Medicare and other health insurances require (one cannot blame them for that). The first question asked by the receptionist is, "Do you have health or medical insurance? Then you are given the form to fill out.

We are not living in the age of Pericles and new discoveries are made every day in medicine. Medical fees are inflated, but so is everything else. Doctors are human, and if Medicaid and other insurances are available and help pay the bills one can't be too hard on the doctors who increase their fees. Medicare and health insurance have helped a great many people but have also been abused, by some doctors tients, increasing fees, splitting fees and recommending druggists. Others have fallen into fraudulent practices.

Some concerned citizens feel that the taxpayers are really the ones who pay because the Medicare and Medicaid bills are really paid by the government. Last year's cost the taxpayers about 5 billion dollars. Others feel that they paid social security taxes all their working lives and are entitled to the rewards of Medicare.

For a meatless supper, serve a mixture of cooked vegetables in a curry sauce over cooked rice. Pass peanuts (whole or ground) and fruit chutney.

Cadets change their plans

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Reversing their previous stand, a group of U.S. Military Academy cadets say they will give cadet officials — with no strings attached — affidavits in which they accused 687 classmates of honor code violations.

Cadet Raymond Betler, one of those who signed the affidavits, said Friday the tentative plan was to give the affidavits to the brigade commander and the chairman of the cadet honor committee.

"They keep saying they don't believe that all this is going on," said Betler, a senior from Library, Pa., and spokesman for the signers. "We're going to give the affidavits to them and allow them to make the decision as to how they're used."

Previously, the White House and two congressional subcommittees had refused to accept the affidavits because of the cadets' insistence that the names involved not be used for prosecution. The subcommittees have been investigating the worst cheating scandal in the academy's 174-year history.

"Neither the Senate nor the House wanted to view those affidavits in confidence," said Cadet Betler. "We still felt that people weren't willing to acknowledge that cheating is more widespread than people are saying. We want to bring out the scope without hurting more individuals if possible."

But he said that after consulting their lawyers, the cadets "decided at this point that this is our only alternative. We just want the whole truth out."

The cadets announced their change in position shortly after Lt. Gen. Sidney B. Berry, superintendent of the academy, and Army Secretary Martin R. Hoffmann both criticized public release of some of the affidavits' contents.

"I am outraged by the irresponsibility and disregard for basic rights of the individual demonstrated by those who have possession of affidavits charging West Pointers with honor violations," said Berry.

The student let East hold the first spade and won the continuation. Then he lost the club finesse to East's king. East led a third spade to clear the suit for his partner.

The student ran off the club suit while discarding a diamond from his own hand. West chucked a heart and two diamonds.

The student thought a while, took the heart finesse and was down one when it lost.

"How do you learn to handle such bad breaks?" asked the student. "Two finesses and both wrong. Could I have done anything?"

"Yes. You could and should have made your contract," replied the Professor.

Do you see how the student could have played safe against all bad breaks as long as West hadn't opened a three-card suit?

After winning that second spade the student should have led the queen of hearts. If West ducked the student would go after clubs and be sure of his contract. If West rose and cleared the spades the student would take and lose the club finesse, but East would not be able to lead a spade.

Ann Landers

Dad discovers hanky panky

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 14-year-old girl with a very big problem. Last Friday I went out with a guy I've been dating for five months. After the movie he asked if he could come in and talk for a while. I said OK.

Well, we started to make out on the living room sofa. I thought my folks were asleep. All of a sudden my dad turned on the lights and there we were.

My boyfriend was just plain petrified. When he regained his composure he got up and left. My father didn't say anything, just turned around and went back upstairs. I'm writing this letter after three days of feeling miserable. Dad hasn't spoken to me since that awful thing happened. Also, Ann, I haven't heard one word from my boyfriend. What should I do? — Unhappy 14

Dear Unhappy: Go to your dad and apologize for disappointing him. Promise to behave better in the future and try hard to keep that promise.

As for your boyfriend, good riddance. With him out of the picture your chances of keeping your promise are a lot better.

Dear Ann Landers: This is in response to "Double Vision In O City" — the two women who showed up at a party wearing the identical dress.

When Mamie Eisenhower was First Lady, the same thing happened to her at a White House reception. She graciously went up to the woman who was wearing a dress exactly like hers and put her at ease by saying, "I hope I look as lovely in mine as you do in yours."

The same thing happened to me not long ago. I took a cue from Mamie and went up to the embarrassed hostess and said, "Your size ten looks a lot prettier than my size 18." The woman fairly beamed. We both relaxed and had a pleasant evening. — I'm For Having A Good Time

Dear Good Time: Thanks for a couple of neat lines to help oil the machinery of human relations. It's good to have a ready comeback and you have supplied my readers with two!

Dear Ann Landers: Your reply to "Slow Boil In Boise" was off target. The woman complained because her husband was "too enthusiastic" about his weekly duplicate bridge games. The part that bothered her most was the social hour after, with "live music" and dancing. He often got home at 2:00 a.m. — or later.

You advised the suspicious wife to go to the games with her husband and take along a good book to keep herself occupied while he "did his number."

You SHOULD have told her to stay home with the book until 11:30, then join him for the dancing. A man who has been married for 35 years doesn't need a babysitter. What's more, the wife would look out of place with her book and her husband would be embarrassed by her obvious attempt to keep an eye on him.

It's pretty silly, really. How much fooling around can a man do while he is playing duplicate bridge? — Women's Editor, Fremont Tribune (Nebraska)

Dear W. Ed: Your point about the silliness of the situation is valid, but if wifey showed up at 11:30 p.m. for the social hour it would look as if she came to police the action. If she arrived WITH him (even though she had a book) her motives would be less apparent.

Thanks for writing, dear. It's nice to hear from one of my bosses.

To steal an airport

Most Missourians couldn't believe it could happen.

We believed our two senators would stop it and they tried and are still trying; we believed our congressmen would try and Congressman Taylor actually had it stopped. You will remember he proposed an amendment which would require the governors of both states to approve before an airport like Lambert could be moved from one state to another. Then, he says, Secretary Coleman, a member of Mr. Ford's cabinet, telephoned him and so assured him that Missouri would be protected. Congressman Taylor agreed to remove his proposed amendment. So he got stabbed in the back just the way Missouri did ... by Coleman.

We believed the governor of Missouri — after all, a Republican — could make sure Illinois did not steal Lambert Field. He tried; he's trying. So far he's failed.

Meanwhile, the GOP has made it clear that Illinois is going to be one of a handful of key Midwestern states that Mr. Ford must win. And that Missouri is not one of those states.

In short, Mr. Ford wants Illinois' 26 electoral votes more than he wants Missouri's 12.

That's where we are now.

Illinois is ahead; they so far are getting away with stealing Lambert Field, its jobs, its industries which pay heavy taxes to Missouri state services and to St. Louis city services. Illinois is winning.

So, what are our senators going to do?

Is Tom Eagleton taking over the leadership of the fight for Missouri?

And what is our Republican Governor Kit Bond going to do?

What can he do besides denounce the steal?

There has got to be some way for Missouri to be successfully led against this raid by Illinois.

Coleman is leading the effort to steal Missouri's Lambert Field.

Who is going to lead Missouri against him? (Mexico Ledger)

The federal whale goes its own way

with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — The late President John F. Kennedy once compared the federal bureaucracy to a giant whale. He tried to grapple with it, he said, but could never seem to get a firm hold on the blubber. The federal whale keeps largely submerged, producing few waves. As long as the taxpayers feed it regularly, it remains reasonably content and benevolent. But it performs pretty much as it pleases, indifferent to its caretakers in the White House and on Capitol Hill.

This, therefore, is a routine tale of a modern Jonah and the whale. There are thousands of stories like it.

The Senate Subcommittee on Reports, Accounting and Management needed some innoucuous information about utility bills. The information was available deep within the whale's belly. The law also stipulates that the public is entitled to this information. After all, the utility companies know how much they charge, and their customers know how much they pay.

Yet the subcommittee spent two years trying to extract information that the federal whale was reluctant to cough up. First, a staff member called the Federal Power Commission. He reached a bureaucrat who acknowledged that the FPC, indeed, possessed the desired information.

But the information was intended, said the bureaucrat, for the Bureau of Labor Statistics. It was, therefore, confidential, he said inexplicably.

The staff member tried the BLS, which confirmed that the utility data was confidential. The argument that this contradicted the law did not seem to impress the bureaucrats at the BLS.

Repeated telephone conversations with the two agencies failed to pry the information from the bureaucratic labyrinth. Subcommittee Chairman Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., finally fired off a letter to BLS boss Julius Shiskin, complaining about the runaround. One month later, Metcalf hadn't heard from Shiskin, so he send a terse, one-sentence reminder.

Two more silent months passed. Then Metcalf appealed over Shiskin's head to then-Labor Secretary Peter Brennan. Copies of his letter, Metcalf noted, had gone to the congressional appropriations committees which handle the BLS budget.

This tactic brought a hasty, apologetic response from Shiskin, who promised that the information requested five months earlier would be forthcoming. Several weeks later, the subcommittee received a jumble of figures from the FPC. The information was so confused that it was virtually indecipherable and, therefore, useless. The rate data that the subcommittee sought was simple enough. But there seems to be no comprehensible problem that the bureaucrats cannot make incomprehensible.

Footnote: The FPC official in charge of the utility rate information couldn't explain the meaningless figures that were sent to Capitol Hill. "It didn't go through me," he assured us. "I have no recollection of any such incident. It's mysterious."

A BLS spokesman explained that there had been "some confusion as to what was restricted." The subcommittee, he said, "got caught between two agencies."

"What could have happened," explained an FPC spokesman, "was confusion at the working level. We are here to serve."

As for the Senate subcommittee, the need for the information has passed. It's too late now. But meanwhile, Senator Metcalf has asked the FPC for a new public access provision to its regulations. This would implement the law the bureaucracies ignored. The formal decision hasn't been made yet, but the FPC staff has endorsed Metcalf's proposal. Maybe next time, Jonah can fare better when he fights the whale.

WRONG FIGURES: We have written a host of stories about Anastasio Somoza, the Nicaraguan strongman, who has turned Nicaragua virtually into a Somoza family estate.

We have checked our facts carefully with both Nicaraguan and American sources. We have relied heavily on documentation in secret U.S. government files. But in all that we have written about Somoza, we think we committed one error, and we want to correct the record.

We reported that Somoza had profited from the 1972 earthquake that leveled his capital city of Managua. Shortly after the disaster, he and his henchmen bought up land at a cheap price and sold it back to his government for housing projects at 10 times what they had paid.

He also used cement produced by his own firm for reconstruction work. His son supervised the dispensation of relief supplies, much of which wound up on the black market. We stand by all these charges.

But we also reported, based upon intelligence reports, that Somoza quickly recouped his own family losses by "ordering the National Insurance Company to pay off his mother ... before any other clients" for buildings that had been destroyed.

After interviewing U.S. government sources and perusing documents supplied by the insurance company itself, we are convinced that the intelligence reports were wrong and that the firm did not pay Mrs. Somoza first.

Of 585 claims, Mrs. Somoza was number 243 to file and number 107 to be paid. She received her $298,071.43 payment 64 days after she filed her claim.

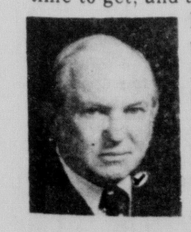
Conservative view

One of those in-between times of year

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

SCRABBLE, Va. — Life is a succession of times, as the Preacher told us long ago: a time to be born, and a time to die; a time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to get, and a time to lose. What the Preacher left unsaid is that the times are separated by the in-between times; and we are passing through one of these now.



Kilpatrick

Things happen, of course, in the in-between times, but nothing very memorable happens. Across our broad land, candidates are campaigning for public office, but it will be a month before the races heat up. In Washington, the Congress is puttering toward adjournment. The courts offer nothing climactic. The markets rock like docked rowboats, going nowhere in particular. And there is no speeding up the in-between times. One waits them out.

Here is the Blue Ridge Mountains, we see the tag end of summer. It is nothing much to look at. When I was a city boy, I used to hear it said of wispy old men, unkempt and scraggly, that they had "gone to seed." To live in the country is to understand the image. The fields that were clothed in green in June are patched with brown; they are raveled at the edges like old towels. The crabgrass spreads a rough and ragged shroud.

This is the worst of all times for the gardener. Only a few weeks ago, the vegetable plots were bursting with the summer's harvest: cucumbers, prickly to the touch; tomatoes as bright as Christmas balls; okra, eggplant, blackeyes peas, zucchini, peppers red and green. And the corn! The stalks stood soldier-straight, row on disciplined row, the ripening ears as ready for inspection as the rifles of Marines. Present arms! Nothing beats a neat platoon of golden bantam corn.

It is gone, all gone. The zucchini crumpled overnight, as if a pup tent had collapsed. In the cucumber patch, only entrails remain. A few tomatoes survive, but the dying vines have the look of torn curtains. The brave company of corn is a tattered, ragtail band. And because this is an in-between time, it is too soon to put the beds down for winter and it is too late to plant anything but turnips. September gardeners are children who can't find anything to do.

This has been a dismal season for our farming neighbors. Rappahannockers — the old-line Rappahannockers, as distinguished from immigrant urban aliens — are mostly cattle people or peach-and-apple people. It has been a terrible time for the cattle people. They are losing their shirts, and they keep going on faith, hope and credit. The orchard people have had two bad years in a row. Last year the trees groaned under a massive crop; you could scarcely give your apples away. This year saw a killing freeze at the peak of the April blossom, and the crop was close to a dead loss. In a dry summer the fields produced poor hay. Now we wait for the restoring snows, but the wait is long.

In these latitudes we are blessed with four distinct seasons, and the blessing — mixed as it is — helps to get us over the in-between times. Life in Hawaii and Florida and Southern California has its undeniable pleasures, but it lacks something in contrast. In another month we will revel in the full-blown glory of autumn, in crisp nights and Indian summer days, and the seediness will pass. Already the dogwoods are turning; the gums are shedding russet leaves, and one of the Preacher's "times" is at hand — the time of blankets and open fires, the putting away of screens, and the flurry of little decisions. Florida is a great place, to be sure, but my friends in Florida do not know what it is to get out the fur-lined boots and to discover that mice have been nesting in the toes.

Sooner or later, the larger in-between time will run its course. In my own world of politics, everything waits on Nov. 2. The Preacher did not mention a "time to elect," but for those who feed on election returns, the quadrennial hour is meat and drink and after-dinner coffee and peach cobbler for dessert. When that Tuesday night rolls around, it will be just as the gentleman said — a time to mourn, and a time to dance; a time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing. For there is indeed a time to every purpose under heaven; and before long the methodical clock, which now ticks away the minutes, will coil its strength and strike the clangorous hour.

Waging war on poverty

Buchwald

One of the big debates going on in Washington is whether the poor people should have a voice in the war on poverty. Everybody has been heard from on the subject except the poor people themselves. So I decided to go out and interview a poor person and ask him what he thought about it. It wasn't easy to find one, because nobody likes to admit to being poor. Also, poor people are suspicious of strangers asking questions. They believe, and rightly so, that no good can come of it.

I finally found a man in a bar in one of the rundown sections of Washington who was willing to admit he was poor and also willing to talk about it.

I asked him if he thought he would like to serve on a committee to see what could be done about poverty.

"Mister, if I had any ideas what to do about poverty, I wouldn't be poor."

"But there is a school of thought in Washington that poor people are the only ones who know the real problems of the poor, and they should be strongly involved in the program to formulate and implement antipoverty programs."

"I wouldn't serve on such a board unless they paid me," he said.

"Oh, I'm sure they would pay you. If they agreed to pay you, what is the first thing you would do?"

"I'd move out of the neighborhood."

"But if you did that, you would lose contact with poor people and you would no longer be able to speak for them."

"Exactly. Poor people don't want to be spoken for. They just want to get the hell out of the neighborhood. Asking poor people how to win the war on poverty is like asking Japanese how to win World War II."

"You've got a point there. But there is a great deal of pressure to have poor people work out their own destinies in the antipoverty program."

"Okay, then let them put everybody who is poor on an antipoverty committee and pay them all a salary. Once they're on a salary, you'll solve every problem a poor person has. And they'll all move the hell out of the neighborhood."

"On the surface this sounds like a good solution to the problem, but it would put a great financial strain on the government."

"Yeah, but if you put people on salary, you wouldn't have to make welfare payments, and the poor people would pay taxes so it would eventually even itself out."

"I agree," I said, "but if you put all poor people on antipoverty committees and paid them, you would eliminate poverty and there would be no reason to have the committees."

"I'm not sure about that. As soon as people get a salary, they can get all the credit they want from banks and finance companies. The more you borrow, the poorer you become. As long as there are credit companies, there will always be poor people."

"It makes a lot of sense," I admitted. "You seem to have thought this out pretty well."

"When you're poor, you have nothing else to think about."

Toothsome effort

A qualified researcher visiting the National Archives building in Washington D.C. can touch the Royal Fijian whale tooth. King Thakoban of the Fiji Islands sent the cucumber-shaped tooth to President Grant in 1870 with a letter asking for a treaty of friendship. The tooth, the King's most precious possession, symbolized his faith and solemn purpose.

Mission that failed

The Phoenix Nest
Edited by Martin Levin

By DERECK WILLIAMSON

Gypsy moths, who like to eat tree leaves, are back in the news again. A recent "Time" article on insect pests noted that the moths are killing millions of valuable trees in U.S. forests.

So far, responses to the gypsy moth invasion have been hawkish — insecticides, genetic warfare, the importing of insect predators.

But why not a peaceful solution? Has anyone tried to reason with the gypsy moths? When I asked myself those questions and nobody answered, I resolved to seek out the gypsy moths and talk to them. Perhaps a settlement could be negotiated. At any rate, putting out a peace feeler wouldn't hurt.

With flashlight in one hand and magnifying glass in the other, I set out at dusk. As I walked deeper into the dark woods I realized that locating a gypsy moth camp would be almost impossible, especially since the bands are always on the move. But I had to give it a try.

I heard the tiny guitars first. It was hard to tell where the sound came from. I got down on my hands and knees and crawled along, peering through the magnifying glass. Suddenly, I saw flickers of light. Fireflies? No; little campfires! And there to the left, in a clearing under a skunk cabbage, were the wagons. I had stumbled on a camp. What luck!

I looked down and beheld a fierce-looking moth in a dark coat, yellow vest, black boots with silver spurs, red bandanna, and a flot-topped hat with fuzzy things hanging from the brim. He wore one tiny golden earring.

What fantastic luck! I was facing none other than the King of the Gypsy Moths.

Although I was awed by his presence, I managed to blurt out the purpose of my mission.

"They didn't send Kissinger?" said the King, chewing reflectively on an oak leaf and regarding me with narrowed eyes.

"Look," I pleaded, "you've got to stop stealing trees and start mending your ways, or there's going to be big trouble. They're talking about bringing back DDT, and importing mercenaries to fight you."

"Our appetites are strong," replied the King. "We are a proud race, and this way of life is in our blood. Besides, you people chased us into the woods. Every time we came to town to make a few bucks pouring crankcase oil on driveways, you blew the whistle on us. So now the woodlands are our refuge, and we shall never leave!"

Activity at the edge of the clearing caught my eye. Two gypsy moths with knives circled each other. A bored-looking female in a red dress lounged nearby. Minor chords sounded in a hypnotic beat. Tension grew. I stared, fascinated.

"What's the matter; you never saw a moth wearing a red dress before?" snarled the King. Suddenly, other eyes were fixed on me. A thorn-sized dagger whizzed through the air and embedded itself in my thumb.

The King gestured for me to follow him away from the clearing, out of danger. I stumbled after him.

"The young bloods cannot be controlled," he hissed. "They say, 'bring on the parasites, bring on the spray planes.' They are not afraid to fight."

An old moth shuffled up to me, examined my palm. "I see bad news," she cackled. "You will lose your wallet." She melted into the underbrush. I patted my pocket and, sure enough, her prediction had come true.

I turned to the King to protest. But he too had vanished. As I groped way back to the road, there seemed to be fewer trees than before.

"How did you hurt your thumb?" my wife asked later that night.

"It's a long story," I answered, "but my peace mission failed. I wonder if they'll use my credit cards, or eat them?"

Candidates take note: money woes aren't gone

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — If the political candidates paid more attention to the surveys of consumer sentiment they would find a revelation that almost screams out for their attention.

It is this: A good many American families, perhaps a majority, are still deep in the recession, often unable to obtain necessities and pay their bills. And they lack confidence in the government's economic policy.

How then do surveys sometimes show Americans are becoming more confident? Simply because the views of low-income families are sometimes offset by the optimism of upper-income families.

This distinct split in the fortunes of upper-and lower-income families is often disguised by generalizations about personal income, car sales, bank savings accounts, tourist revenues and the like. But it is there.

It is only when the generalizations are examined that the evidence of two economies emerges one of which is strong, the other weak.

Researchers at the University of Michigan report, for example, that for upper-income families the recession is over and confidence is rising, but that for those with incomes below $12,500 confidence continues to drop.

For those with incomes of $15,000 or more, they report, there is an increase in the proportion of people who feel better off financially than in 1975.

Among those with incomes below $12,500, the same researchers say, there has been very little satisfaction reported concerning individual financial situations.

Jay Schmiedeskapm, who directs the Survey Research Center at the university, comments that at this stage of the business cycle it isn't highly unusual for attitudes of upper-income families to recover more swiftly.

"However, at present, the difference is unusually large," he states in a report on the center's activities.

Sindlinger & Co., which conducts daily surveys on consumer attitudes, recently headlined its report to clients: "Consumers Remain Economically Split. Upper-income consumers continue to fare well but lower-income majority is hit hard by inflation and unemployment."

Sindlinger arrives at the conclusion that 70 per cent of Americans are still battling inflation, recession and unemployment on replies to his survey of Household Money Supply.

Four questions are asked of families contacted by the company's telephone interviewers: What is your current income compared with six months ago? What is your expected income six months from now? What is your expected job security in the next six months? How do you expect business to fare locally over the next six months?

A total of 335 Sedalians took advantage of a free blood pressure screening offered by the Medicine Shoppe, 709 East Broadway, Thursday.

According to a spokesman for Medicine Shoppe, over 30,000 persons were screened by the chain of national prescription pharmacies across the country last month.

Of those screened locally, 203 were over 60 years of age. Not enough persons in the 30 to 50 year age bracket were screened to get a representative sampling.

According to a release from the shop, 85 persons, or 25 per cent, had elevated blood pressure and 43, or 13 per cent were boarderline. This was considered "well above normal."

Jack Morris, pharmacist and owner of the store, said he intends to hold other screenings "on a timely basis."

Croatian faction always a problem

By The Associated Press

Croatian nationalists like those who hijacked a New York-to-Chicago jetliner Friday night have been a consistent problem for the Yugoslav government since the nation was established in 1918 as a kingdom of Croatians, Serbians and Slovenes. The more numerous Serbians have been dominant and the Croatians have chafed under their control.

After World War II Communist partisan leader Josip Broz Tito, the son of a Croatian blacksmith himself, became president of Yugoslavia and steered an independent Communist course that some right-wing Croatians and Croatian emigres have fought with terrorist methods.

Dissent among Croatians inside Yugoslavia was largely subdued in the early 1970s when the entire leadership of the Croatian Communist party was dismissed. But terrorism has continued sporadically, leading to firm crackdowns by the Belgrade government.

As recently as June, five Croatian separatists received death sentences, later commuted to 20 years imprisonment, for planting a time bomb in September 1975 in a Zagreb building near where President Tito was to give a speech. The bomb went off prematurely and no one was hurt. Six other persons received lesser sentences in that bombing.

In February, Croat separatists were linked to the assassination of Yugoslavia's consul general in Frankfurt, West Germany.

WHATEVER BECAME OF CASH & CARRY?

A THING OF THE PAST?

Back in the old days, when you wanted to make a purchase, you knew it was going to be cash and carrry. The sign said so—right on the cash register. But these days people use credit cards and charge accounts and put up with carrying charges. So it's usually around the 1st or the 15th of the month that people wonder,

"Whatever became of cash and carry?"

Well, cash and carry is still around. In fact, you'd be surprised at the number of people who still save regularly for what they want to buy. And they save at First State Savings. Because First State Savings pays the highest rate on insured passbook savings and your savings are insured to $40,000 by a U.S. Government Agency.

So open a savings account with us and maybe someday you can sit back and smile to yourself and say, "Whatever became of credit cards and charge accounts?"

Auto safety belts mandatory in most European countries

LONDON (AP) — Auto safety belts are compulsory across Europe, except in Italy, and most governments have passed laws to make drivers and front-seat passengers wear them.

Fines can be levied for noncompliance and officials say there is a marked decline in traffic deaths and injuries since use of the belts became widespread.

BRITAIN: Installation of safety belts is compulsory in all cars registered after 1965. Since 1973 there have been three attempts in Parliament to make wearing them compulsory, but two of these sank without trace.

The latest attempt, on which lawmakers were allowed a free vote by their political party chiefs, is part way through the House of Commons, awaiting a decision in October. If the Commons approves, it goes to the House of Lords and if they agree the bill becomes law and could be implemented next spring or later.

Transport Minister Dr. John Gilbert has said wearing safety belts would annually save 1,000 lives, 11,000 serious injuries and $108 million. The critics of belts agree they would save lives but argue they are an erosion of personal freedom. In some cases the courts have scaled down injury compensation where the victim was not wearing a safety belt.

FRANCE: Legislation took effect from Jan. 1, 1973, when all vehicles registered in 1970 or later had to be fitted with belts. From Jan. 1, 1973, all front-seat passengers were required to wear the belts on highways at all times, and in cities after 10 p.m. From Jan. 1 this year the law requiring seat belts in all cars was backdated to include autos registered after July 1, 1957.

WEST GERMANY: Wearing safety belts has been compulsory since last Jan. 1, but persons found driving without them are not penalized. Transport Minister Kurt Gscheidle said he wants to convince motorists without the threat of legal action. So far he seems to be successful.

A survey in January showed 71 per cent of drivers on the highways wore belts and 58 per cent wore them on country roads. But only 36 per cent of drivers used them in town.

West Germany has about 18 million vehicles. Fatalities in January dropped 3.3 per cent compared to January last year, although traffic accidents were up by 10.4 per cent. The ministry estimated that 110 drivers were saved from death by belts and another 3,500 from injury.

ITALY: There is no legislation requiring auto safety belts, which are optional equipment in cars.

SOVIET UNION: All Soviet drivers have to obtain belts for their cars and use them, if their cars have anchors for installation. The original law was enacted early last year, but it was rescinded until Jan. 1, 1976, when it was discovered there weren't enough belts produced to meet the need. There were also complaints the belts were of poor quality and s ined clothing.

Ne Soviet cars have lap and shoulder belts and most citizens wear them. Failure to wear a belt brings a warning but does not involve a fine, the police say.

THE NETHERLANDS: Belts were ordered last Jan. 1 for all cars sold after Jan. 1, 1971 and new delivered cars must have them in the front seats. Police can fine motorists on the spot if they see them travelling without wearing belts. Press reports say the fines aren't fixed but are around $15 a time.

Dutch officials say the risk of death or serious injury has been "considerably diminished" by wearing the belts. Many motorists consider them a nuisance and there are signs that wearing of them is tailing off.

AUSTRIA: All cars must have belts for both front seats but there is no penalty for not wearing a belt. It is estimated that less than half of all Austrian drivers wear the belts, but insurance companies will soon be able to plead co-responsibility of an unbelted driver in an accident. This could reduce the insurance compensation.

BELGIUM: Drivers and front-seat passengers have had to wear belts since June 1, 1975 in all autos built after 1968. There is an apparent fall in fatalities but no official figure. Many drivers are seen not using belts and the police are not noticeably tough about such violations. The inertia reel type belt, which is anchored by a spring, seems to encourage drivers to wear belts in preference to the fixed type.

SWITZERLAND: Wearing belts became compulsory last Jan. 1 and authorites say there has been a "marked decline" in accidents. In the first three months of this year there were 221 deaths on Swiss roads, 14.3 per cent fewer than in the similar 1975 period. Accidents involving injuries dropped by 12.6 per cent compared with the overall decline in accidents of only 3.3 per cent.

Front-seat passengers not wearing belts are liable to a fine of $8 but the police don't seem to be enforcing it rigorously.

SWEDEN: Front-seat belts are compulsory in all cars produced in 1969 and after. Cars made in 1970 and after have had to carry back-seat belts as well. Front-seat belts must be worn but there is no compulsion on back-seat belts. Noncompliance draws a fine up to about $11. The laws cover only passenger autos and excludes taxis.

NORWAY: Parliament enacted legislation in 1975 ordering all drivers to wear belts but noncompliance is not an offense. The authorities say they want to persuade motorists to use belts, but if the number of belt-wearers stays low, the department of communications says it will make it an offense not to wear them. All cars imported here after 1971 must be fitted with belts.

DENMARK: Belts are compulsory for drivers and front-seat passengers since last Jan. 1 and an on-the-spot fine of $17 is levied for noncompliance against the persons not wearing a belt.

Appointed

Donald Tapperson, vice president and executive director of the Bingham Sketches, Inc., has been named executive director of the Missouri Arts Council effective Oct. 11. Created by the Missouri legislature in 1965, the council is the second oldest and fifth largest state arts council in the nation. Tapperson, 37, formerly a reporter for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch newspaper directed the success fund-raising effort to obtain the Bingham sketches, which will be given to the state.

Drive nets $18,200 here and Marshall

A total of $18,202.64 in pledges and special events proceeds was collected last weekend by the Mid-Mizzou chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, it was announced by chapter president R.L. Settles.

In Sedalia, where a Labor Day carnival, a bowl-a-thon, a special dance and other fund-raising events were held, $6,715 in pledges and $6,787.64 in special events proceeds were obtained. Marshall, $3,565 in pledges and $1,235 in special events proceeds.

The total amount collected of $18,202.64 is approximately $7,000 more than the $11,000 received last year.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR BARBARA BAIN, star of TV's "Space: 1999"

As an actress who's been married a long time, why do you think so many show-business marriages fail?—J.R., Chattanooga, Tenn.

● Before I answer that, why does no one mention all the marriages that have endured? Of our own circle of friends, Norman and Frances Lear have been together for 20 years, Carl and Estelle Reiner over 30, Robert and Sondra Blake about 14. Those who split don't know why they got married in the first place. Some couples put enormous demands on each other and have expectations which are impossible to fulfill. For instance, when faced with a crisis—which happens in all families—one of the parties says, "I never signed up for that. It wasn't part of the contract." People go to pieces because they can't accept a give-and-take relationship. But check the statistics—I think you'll find more marriages fail out of show business than in it.

FOR HOWARD K. SMITH

I heard recently that in one of your newscasts you told about the late Lyndon B. Johnson linking Fidel Castro to the assassination of President Kennedy. What did LBJ say? —T. F. Elliott, Sacramento, Calif.

● He told me, "Kennedy was trying to get to Castro, but Castro got to him first." He refused to give details, saying that it would all come out one day.

FOR ELIZABETH L. POST, etiquette expert

What's your opinion of people who take leftovers home from a restaurant?—G.B., Fort Smith, Ark.

● Had you asked me that question years ago, I'd have said it was an outrageous thing to do. Now, however, what with the price of food being what it is, it's outrageous to leave it on the plate. So, in certain places, doggy bags are in order—except in an elegant restaurant, where I wouldn't have the nerve to ask for one.

FOR TONY KUBEK, sportscaster

If you were teaching a Little Leaguer to pitch, what would you have him throw?—James Brahan, Appleton, Wis.

● I would strongly advise a Little League pitcher to throw nothing but fast balls. Curve balls put too much stress on the arm. I would also tell him to concentrate on perfecting his control.

FOR MONTY HALL, host of "Let's Make a Deal"

Have you ever had any allergy problems as a result of the various kinds of makeup worn by women who kiss you? —Mrs. M. J. Kersh, Denton, Texas

● No—not from the ladies. But I once got a miserable facial rash from the beard of a guy who kissed me on the show.

FOR MELISSA GILBERT of "Little House on the Prairie"

I read in Family Weekly that you have had a few problems with friends who are jealous of your part on "Little House." Do you still have such problems?—Rose Meyer, Saginaw, Mich.

● Not any more. My real friends at school never teased me. During the first year a few of the kids made fun of me, but when they found out I was the same after the show as I was before it, they stopped that silly stuff.

FOR MELANIE

What got you interested in singing?—S.A., Hamilton, Ohio

● Not what, who! My mother. She was a jazz singer, and always sang around the house. When I first started writing my own little songs, they were imitations of what Mom was singing. In those days, I did it for fun. But when I was in high school and I was singing in Greenwich Village coffeehouses and people were putting money in the hat I passed around, I realized singing paid off. Later, when I was paid $20 for one night at a New Jersey shore bar, I knew I'd picked the right career.

FOR SIR ALEC GUINNESS

Why did you choose to play in the new movie "Murder by Death" after being away from movies for so long?—M.H., Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

● Because it's a comedy, and there aren't too many of them around these days. I like to laugh, and to make others laugh. Also, I believe in movies. They can be a positive influence—as long as they're not just about sex and violence.

FOR EDITH HEAD, costume designer

● Rod Laver. I think he's the greatest tennis player who ever lived and has the best manners of any tennis player I know. I can't wait to meet him—one of these days.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I've heard Louise Lasser and Greg Mullavey have terrible fights on the set of "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman," and that he almost hit her once. True?—R. Kelly, Casper, Wyo.

● Not according to Dody Goodman—she plays the mother-in-law on the show and is with them all the time. She said: "That sounds strange because Greg is so gentle and incapable of hitting anyone! I'll admit there are times when we try to get difficult scenes right, and it's such hard going that one talks loud and the other snaps back. I remember playing a scene with my 'husband,' and he tried to direct me. 'Let me alone. I'll work out my part by myself,' I shot back, annoyed. But that was a professional disagreement and doesn't make us bitter enemies. In fact, we're good friends. I think what R. Kelly is referring to is some inaccuracy in a newspaper or magazine. Whatever happens on the set is not due to animosity. Put it down to professional differences or artistic temperament!"

About Doug Sanders: "Women really like Doug. He wears colorful clothes, has a warm personality and probably has more sex appeal than any other golfer." —golfer Laura Baugh

Athletes With "It"

We Went Searching for the Most Colorful, Charismatic, Sexiest Athletes in the world. Look Who We Found!

Charisma, star quality, sex appeal, magnetism—whatever you call it, some athletes have it, others don't. That's the way it is today, and that's the way it's always been.

FAMILY WEEKLY was reminiscing recently with Bill Veeck, colorful president of the Chicago White Sox, and he put it this way: "If you brought some people down from Mars and sat them in the ballpark when Babe Ruth was playing, they'd be able to feel the sparks he could generate. They'd know right away that this man was something special.

"The same thing would be true if they could see Satchel Paige ambling in from the bullpen. And the amazing thing about it is that those people with the most charisma usually don't think there's anything different about themselves. Dizzy Dean was about as colorful as they come, but he had no idea he was unusual. Where he came from, everyone acted and spoke the way he did."

If Veeck is uncertain as to what constitutes charisma or star quality, he is certain that today's athletes aren't as colorful as those of the past. "Education and the media have made people conform to accepted standards, and that reduces the number of colorful guys like Dizzy Dean and Satchel." But Veeck did admit to feeling a certain electricity watching a Pete Rose in baseball, a Joe Namath in football, a Bobby Hull or Gordie Howe in hockey or a Julius Boros or Arnold Palmer in golf. "I can sense it, I can feel it," says Veeck. "These guys can communicate something without words, and what they communicate excites people."

After our chat with Veeck, FAMILY WEEKLY went to a number of other sports experts and asked them who, in their opinion, were the most "charismatic" athletes in the world today. The experts we talked to were Pamela Van Wagenen, editor of "womenSports" magazine, Alex Karras, former football star turned TV personality, Jeanne Parr, author of "The Superwives: Life with the Giant Jocks," Don Meredith, another football star who's found a home on TV, and Dick Schaap, a TV commentator and editor of "Sport" magazine. Here's their list (right).

Most Charismatic Athletes
(Listed Alphabetically)

Men

Muhammad Ali
Jimmy Connors
A. J. Foyt
Walt Frazier
John Havlicek
Gordie Howe
(ice hockey)
Joe Namath
Arnold Palmer
Pete Rose
Lee Trevino

Women

JoAnne Carner
(golf)
Chris Evert
Evonne Goolagong
Billie Jean King
Olga Korbut
Francie Larrieu Lutz
(track)
Mary Jo Peppler
(volleyball)
Judy Rankin
Kathy Switzer
(marathon)
Virginia Wade

ABOUT JOE NAMATH

Don Meredith: "He makes this sport tick, is what he does. I know that neither he nor the Jets have done a whole heck of a lot lately, but Joe is still the one football player everybody knows and that includes your little old ladies who wouldn't know a football from an unidentified flying object."

Dick Schaap: "He still has it all—the looks, the style, the swagger. As long as he stays in football, he'll be one of the sports world's most exciting figures."

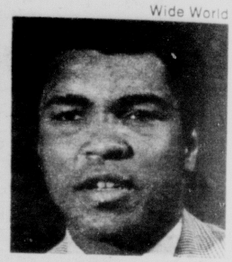
ABOUT BILLIE JEAN KING

Pamela Van Wagenen: "Billie Jean revolutionized tennis and women's sports in general because of the strength of her personality. Who else could have done it? She put her career and reputation on the line to fight for the overall improvement of women's conditions in sports. She had so much opposition, but she succeeded anyway. People should never forget that."

Alex Karras: "I have to admit I don't give a rap about tennis, but Billie Jean, who's a nice girl, really took on the big boys and won. I think that women's sports still have a long way to go, but without King, they'd probably still be in the Dark Ages. This girl has charisma, all right."

Wide World



ABOUT MUHAMMAD ALI

Bill Veeck: "Ali has a title, Heavyweight Boxing Champion, that has built-in charisma. But he has taken that and run with it. Nobody can duplicate him. He's the best-known athlete—probably the best-known person—in the world."

Dick Schaap: "I covered him for the first time when he boxed at the Rome Olympics in 1960, and even way back then, when he was only 18, he had a style, an appeal that was just totally unique. He couldn't have created it. No 18-year-old can go out and create a personality for himself that doesn't already exist inside of him."

ABOUT JOHN HAVLICEK

Jeanne Parr: "There's one guy who has so much charisma that the superstars from other sports think he's bigger than they are—and that's John Havlicek. A couple of years ago, when Robert Redford invited Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein to his home to discuss the making of "All the President's Men," he also invited John and his wife Beth. While Woodward and Bernstein sat around wondering when Redford would begin discussing the film with them, Redford sat talking basketball with Havlicek. That's the kind of presence this man has."

Wide World

ABOUT WALT FRAZIER

Pamela Van Wagenen: "He has beautiful muscle development and a way of moving that lets you know he's always in control of his body. Besides that, he has tremendous presence on the basketball court—a kind of dignified, businesslike approach that catches your attention."

Now A Word About Sex Appeal

Charisma's one thing. What about old-fashioned sex appeal? Here FAMILY WEEKLY went to a different group of people—and came up with a different list. The people we talked with were Laura Baugh, golfer, Billie Jean King, tennis champion, Bob Seagren, pole vault champion, Donna de Varona, swimmer, Phyllis George, former Miss America, Lenore Hershey, editor of "Ladies' Home Journal," Dick Schaap, editor of "Sport" magazine, Sheryl Flatow, managing editor of "Sport," Pamela Van Wagenen, editor of "womenSports," Kathy Switzer, a marathon runner, and Paula Sperber, a professional

Here were some of the comments:

Wide World

ABOUT EVONNE GOOLAGONG

Bjorn Borg: "Evonne Goolagong is very sexy the way she moves on and off the court. She's very sleek with long graceful legs. I also think Virginia Wade and Billie Jean King are sexy, but in different ways. Virginia always plays so beautifully, with great strokes and long strides covering the court. She resembles a tigress with her long dark hair. Billie Jean's been on top for so long, and she is a very sexy lady once you get to know her."

Pamela Van Wagenen: "I've found that most tennis players think Evonne Goolagong is a warm, vivacious person with great sex appeal. She has marvelous body control as a player and she has a friendly outgoing personality, too. And she's nice not just to people she knows. She's the same with everyone."

In today's atmosphere of reducing drugs and diet pills, isn't it nice to know there's a safe natural way to lose weight.

If you've spent a good part of your life looking at slim people and wishing you could look as attractive as they do, answer this. How many ways have you tried to lose that weight? By taking reducing drugs? Diet pills? By crash dieting? Living on liquids?

And what for? So you could make yourself jittery and jumpy and drive everybody else up the wall? So you could sit and sip your meals while the rest of the family dug into good solid food? So you could keep hoping that those diet pills would work "overnight" like you thought they would?

Whichever way you chose to reduce, chances are it was so drastic you wound up a nervous wreck. And it's quite understandable. Because those are all unnatural ways to lose weight. Is there then a natural way to eat less, so you shed those excessive pounds without nervous side effects?

If it means doing it with willpower alone, that can be tough. Fact is, in a series of clinical tests, it was learned that most overweight people find it difficult to cut back on their caloric intake without help. And that's where Ayds comes in. Ayds® Reducing Plan Candy. It contains vitamins and minerals but no drugs.

Over the years, hundreds of thousands of people have followed the Ayds plan with success. So this is not a fad. And remember, there are no drugs involved. Here's how it works. Fifteen minutes before meals, you take one or two Ayds with a hot drink. This begins to satisfy your appetite, so when you sit down to eat, you eat less. As a result, you take in fewer calories and lose weight gradually and naturally.

By reducing this way, you're not likely to look drawn and haggard from losing too much too soon. As a matter of fact, people who lose weight on the Ayds plan often look years younger, because it's such a sensible, natural way to reduce.

Incidentally, one of the most appetizing aspects of the Ayds plan is the variety in it. There are no monotonous menus to follow. You can eat regular meals, only Ayds helps you eat less. And you have four Ayds flavors to choose from: chocolate, chocolate mint and butterscotch fudge, or chewy vanilla caramel.

So if you're yearning to be slim and attractive, to be admired by your family and friends, get started on the Ayds plan. It's the best way to prove that this is a safe, natural way to take in fewer calories and lose weight.

ABOUT JOE NAMATH

Kathy Switzer: "He's not really the type of guy I'd want to go out with, but he has unmistakable sex appeal. He has an electricity that few men in any field can match."

Donna de Varona: "Joe Namath is one of the sexiest men in sports today. And he knows that one of the reasons he's successful and makes a lot of money is that he's remained single and cultivated his image as a swinger. The illusion of having a lot of sex appeal is almost as important as having a lot of it. Joe's no illusion, but he does work hard at maintaining his image."

Lenore Hershey: "Joe Namath? To me, he's just a macho joke."

ABOUT LAURA BAUGH

Larry Bortstein: "Laura Baugh has a way of looking you in the eye that is totally disarming, at least to a man. Whether she intends to have this effect or not is subject to question, but no other woman in sports can melt me with just a stare."

Bob Seagren: "She's a great-looking girl with a very pretty face. I always went for pretty faces. My wife Kam has a very pretty face. So does Laura—one of the prettiest in sports or anywhere else."

Melchior DiGiacomo

ABOUT BJORN BORG

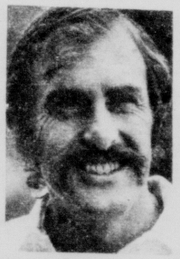
Billie Jean King: "With his charm and personality, he's going to attract many new fans to men's tennis. You know, women's tennis has been spectacularly successful around the world in recent years, and the men's game has needed someone like Bjorn to be its sex symbol. I see only one problem with Bjorn—he may take too many fans away from us!"

Wide World

ABOUT O. J. SIMPSON

Donna de Varona: "O. J. and I have worked together a few times on television, and I always found him very outgoing and charming. He has a wonderful personality, and definitely has sex appeal."

Lenore Hershey: "I find him attractive as a human being and graceful as an athlete."



ABOUT JOHN NEWCOMBE

Sheryl Flatow: "To me, the sexiest man in sports is John Newcombe, the great tennis player. I like his form, and you can draw your own conclusions as to what I mean by that."

A DOUBLE BONUS
AT HOME/ COOKBOOK

Great kitchens, like this one, are brightly appointed, have enough counter and storage space—allow the whole family to gather for a cook-in.

Appliances by General Electric

Exciting things are happening in the kitchen—because we are thinking differently, living differently, cooking differently than we did a decade ago.

The kitchen is breaking out of its rectangle into the round and odd-angular. It is spilling into the living room because hosts want to be with their guests; into the family room because food preparation and serving are becoming more of a family affair. Microwave ovens, indoor barbecues, compactors, self-defrosting and self-cleaning devices, all either unavailable or costly a number of years ago, no longer seem to be luxuries.

Builders, who recently have tried to cut housing costs by reducing the size of the kitchen and eliminating some of its contemporary conveniences, have been told by prospective home buyers, "No, we want kitchens that are larger, not smaller." So builders are rethinking, considering today's lifestyles.

In cabinetry, "the European look"—clean, uncluttered, long on color and short on detail—is the newest. Hardware is generally concealed, resulting in straight, unbroken lines.

European-inspired cabinets have had a tremendous impact on the American market. In the past two years, they've encouraged many of us to "forget Mediterranean" and "think modern."

Not that you can't have a Mediterranean-style kitchen if that's what you want. One great thing about today's cabinetry is its versatility. With a different door style, another finish, a change of hardware or different wall and floor coverings, a kitchen becomes a transformed environment, without changing its size or layout at all.

Great Things to Make in Your Well-Equipped Kitchen

Today's well-equipped kitchen will contain a number of small appliances. Why? Because as lifestyles change and the traditional six-o'clock dinner gives way to "catch-as-catch-can," small appliances fulfill a real need for flexibility and individuality. These recipes are designed for the new miracle appliances now on the market.

What about the major color trend in appliances? The No. 1 best seller is not a color at all! It's white, followed closely by harvest gold.

A trend that is changing the look of appliances is the expanding use of black glass—replacing clear glass in ovens and ranges; it's a perfect companion to the naturals and earth tones currently favored in countertops, wall coverings, floor coverings and cookware.

With cabinets becoming simpler and appliances so often wearing "basic white," it's logical that more pattern should show up on the floor and the wall. Wall coverings are moving away from cute stereotype "kitchen" patterns—though they are still abundantly available (but being better designed)—and the direction in floor coverings is toward easy-care vinyls in dramatic patterns featuring medallions, florals, abstract forms that blend attractively with today's interiors. (Keep in mind that it's more practical to use pattern where you can replace it, at comparatively little cost, than in cabinets and appliances you'll have to live with for years.)

Another factor in kitchen remodeling is one that has affected, if not swept, the entire economy: do-it-yourself. Escalating labor costs and more leisure time have convinced people who might previously have employed professionals to take up their own tools. Among home owners contemplating improvement, the kitchen has become the do-it-yourselfer's chief project.

How much can you do yourself? Short of plumbing and electrical work, quite a lot, if you're willing and able.

Many kitchen dealers are conducting do-it-yourself clinics, generally free, but with advance registration required. With explanations and demonstrations of the proper tools and how to use them, these specialists supplement the instructions that manufacturers of do-it-yourself cabinetry provide with their product.

To find a specialist who will work with you—or, if you prefer, to contract the whole kitchen remodeling job—look for the emblem of the AIKD (American Institute of Kitchen Dealers) or the letters CKD (Certified Kitchen Dealers) after a kitchen specialist's name. (In terms of cost for major remodeling, including floor covering, the expert's rule of thumb is: three times the cost of new appliances—your sink, refrigerator, cooking units.) For a free national directory of certified kitchen designers, write to the American Institute of Kitchen Dealers, Department FW, 114 Main Street, Hackettstown, N.J. 07840.

With a little help from kitchen professionals, you can make exciting things happen in your kitchen, to suit your family's lifestyle.

QUICK CHICKEN AND SPINACH ELEGANT
(Toaster-Oven)

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup sliced onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1 jar (2½ ozs.) sliced mushrooms, drained
2 (1 lb.) boned, flattened chicken breasts
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 pkg. (10 ozs.) creamed spinach
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
4 Holland rusks or toast slices

1. Line baking pan of toaster-oven with double thickness of foil, making a 1-inch high rim.
2. Melt butter in foil pan at 300°F. Add onion, garlic and mushrooms. Cook for 2 minutes at 350°F.
3. Add chicken breasts, turning in butter-onion mixture to coat. Sprinkle with salt and pepper.
4. Spoon creamed spinach around chicken. Cook for 7 minutes at 350°F. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese and brown top for 2 minutes at 450°F.
5. Serve over rusks or toast. Makes 2 servings

CINNAMON-WALNUT COFFEE CAKE
(Food Processor)

Topping:
½ cup walnuts or pecans
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon ground cinnamon
Batter:
½ cup (1 stick) butter, cut in 4 or more pieces
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
2 eggs
1 cup sour cream
1½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
⅛ teaspoon salt

1. Make topping: With metal blade in place, add walnuts, ½ cup sugar and cinnamon to bowl of food processor.
2. Process, turning on and off, until mixture is combined and nuts are coarsely chopped. Turn mixture onto sheet of waxed paper.
3. Make batter: Again using metal blade, add butter, 1 cup sugar and vanilla to bowl and process until combined, about 30 seconds.
4. Add eggs and sour cream. Process until thoroughly mixed.
5. Combine flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Stir to mix, then add to butter mixture. Turn on and off 3 or 4 times until flour disappears.
6. Grease and flour a 7- to 9-cup tube pan (an 8-inch spring form pan will work, too).
7. Place half of batter in pan and top with half of cinnamon mixture. Add remaining batter and sprinkle top evenly with remaining cinnamon mixture.
8. Bake in a preheated, 350°F. oven for 45-50 minutes. Cool for 10 minutes in pan; turn out on rack, turning again so topping side is up, to cool completely. Makes one 2-lb. cake

A Smart Way to Rate Your Kitchen

You can calculate your kitchen's "convenience quotient" by evaluating five areas—storage space, work space, appliances, ventilation and lighting—grading each from one (inefficient) to six (excellent).

A three in any category indicates room for improvement. A total score of 15 or less hints at more than minor remodeling!

A—STORAGE SPACE: Is there enough easily accessible storage space for those items you use daily? Are there "out-of-the-way" cabinets for storing infrequently used materials? Good storage where you want it is of prime importance for step-saving work flow.

1 2 3 4 5 6

B—WORKSPACE: Is there enough counterspace (for food preparation, etc.) and landing space (for grocery bags)? You need 24 inches on each side of the sink bowl, a minimum of 15-18 inches of landing space adjacent to the door handle of the refrigerator, and 18 inches of safety area next to the stove top.

1 2 3 4 5 6

C—UP-TO-DATE APPLIANCES: Innovations in appliances will save you time and eliminate many unpleasant chores. These include dishwashers that wash without pre-rinsing—even pots and pans—frost-free refrigerators, self-cleaning ovens, cooktops without exposed burners, waist-high wall ovens, food-waste disposers.

1 2 3 4 5 6

D—VENTILATION: It will keep your kitchen cooler and looking brighter longer; prevent grease deposits on cabinets, walls and windows; remove heat and moisture; make upkeep a breeze for you.

M'sieur Crepe will make inexpensive main dishes or desserts turn into a fun feast. By Sunbeam.

QUICK CREPES
(Electric Crepe-Maker)

2 eggs
2/3 cup milk
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
2/3 cup buttermilk pancake and waffle mix

1. Place eggs, milk, oil and pancake mix in electric blender; cover and blend until smooth or put mixture in bowl and beat until smooth.
2. Heat electric crepe-maker according to manufacturer's directions.
3. Pour batter into 9-inch pie pan. Dip heated crepe-maker into batter. Place on heating unit

E—LIGHTING: Most kitchens have only one-sixth of the amount of lighting recommended by illumination engineers. Do you have adequate light where you work at the sink and at the stove? How is the general lighting of the room? Good lighting makes your work less tiresome. Light can be decorative and lend your kitchen a more cheerful look.

FREE! With Post Cereal box tops.

These days schools are having trouble replacing old and purchasing new sports and playground equipment. And that's unfortunate, because physical fitness is important for every child. But with taxpayers' money being stretched to its limits, school budgets are suffering.

Now you can help.

Post Cereals has developed the "Box Tops for Fun 'N Fitness" program to help schools (kindergarten through eighth grade) like yours obtain badly needed equipment . . . from baseballs and tennis rackets to trampolines and parallel bars and much, much more . . . without costing your community a cent.

Post Cereals is providing this equipment FREE in exchange for Post Cereal box tops. And here's what you can do.

First, be sure that your child's school knows about and participates in the program. Then, start collecting the box tops from everybody's favorite Post Cereals and take them to your school or PTA. From now until March 31, 1977 get your friends and everyone in your community to do the same. Because the more people participate, the more your school can benefit.

As an example, say a school of 500 students wants equipment for a softball team. If each student brings in just 2 box tops a week, they'd have more than enough for new bats, balls, gloves, helmets and bases . . . and still have enough left for a schoolyard swing set! FREE!

The Post Cereals "Box Tops for Fun 'N Fitness" program. It's a great way to help all children, including yours.

2 "Favorite" Kitchens By Professional Designers

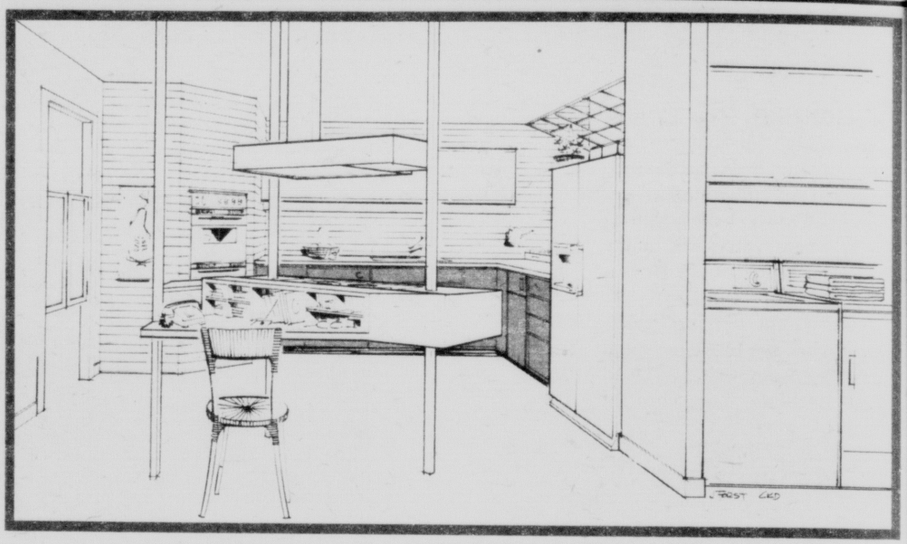
These "favorite kitchens," dreamt up by two designers for their lifestyles, attractively utilize a U-shape arrangement. Each allows for efficient work patterns and ample counter and storage space.



This Kitchen Doubles As an Office!

Here's a great kitchen, luxurious and practical, executed by Jack Forst, that features a cooking-center island and adjacent laundry area, designed contiguously in an area 14½ x 17 feet.

The plan is carefully worked out to enable nonkitchen traffic to pass by without interrupting the cooking process.

The refrigerator center, located next to the sink, has 4½ feet of counter space providing a good landing area for groceries, as well as serving as a mixing center.

The cooking island, with a 36-inch exhaust hood above, is angled to let you view activities in the family room. It is topped with heat-resistant tile, contains ample drawer storage for cooking utensils. A planning desk doubles as an office/hobby area.

Cabinet storage (a need voiced most often by American homemakers) is supplemented by a shallow pantry close to both family room and kitchen. The nearby laundry room includes a place to hang wash-and-wear items.

"An all-purpose kitchen such as this one can easily be anyone's favorite," says Forst.

Super-Flexible Cabinets on Wheels

This dual-purpose kitchen (8¾ x 9½ feet), by Lorraine Allen, acquires functionalism from its open design, with the kitchen and dining areas flowing into each other. The studio-kitchen (which also doubles as a hobby center) contains one wall of organized storage and three 27-inch-wide portable base cabinets—which mark the room's real flexibility. The cabinets are a genius touch for a small kitchen. They increase the number of surface areas for food preparation, can be rolled around to become a buffet server between the kitchen and dining areas or go out onto the patio as a buffet-bar set-up. When the room is being used for art activities, these cabinets can be pushed back to give more creative space in the middle of the kitchen.

"This 'super-flexible' kitchen is my favorite," says Lorraine, "because of the openness created by the large glass area, plants and lovely view. It satisfies my need for space."

Here Are Some Questions To Ask Yourself Before You Plan Your Kitchen

Q. Will the family be eating in the kitchen?
A. Provide a table and chairs and/or a snack bar.

Q. Do you entertain a lot? For the popsicle crowd, teenagers, adults?
A. You'll need ample storage for equipment, supplies and extra serving space.

Q. Will you do meal-planning there?
A. You'll need a desk and shelf for cookbooks.

Q. Do you plan to coordinate the family's activities there?
A. Add a bulletin board, telephone and a file for household records.

Q. How many people might be there at any given time?
A. Too many cooks spoil the broth unless they have room to move around without running into each other.

Q. Is there room for a laundry?
A. We don't want to deal with dirty clothes in the kitchen, but a laundry area nearby is a real convenience.

Q. Do you sew a lot?
A. Consider a sewing room/laundry combination. A large table or drop shelf can double as a folding space for clean clothes and a surface for cutting a pattern—while the iron and ironing board are handy for both operations.

THE WORK TRIANGLE SAVES STEPS

An imaginary triangle, measured between the refrigerator, sink and range, not to exceed 22 feet, is a good rule of thumb for the most efficient arrangement of equipment utilized daily. This flow-of-work pattern will save time and energy. The light arrows point out how the flow of work progresses from the back door (receiving) to refrigerator, to sink, to range, to serving. The dark arrows show how through-the-kitchen traffic properly bypasses the work triangle.

Side A: 4-7 feet
Side B: 4-6 feet
Side C: 4-9 feet
Total: 12-22 feet
Ideal: 15-20 feet

We needed a little extra room to make the point that a pound of Miracle spreads 36 more slices than unwhipped margarine.

Miracle Brand Margarine is whipped. Which means that a pound of Miracle goes 50% further than a regular pound. Spreads half again as many slices of bread.

2 Dining Accents—With the Emphasis on "Traditional"

A well-appointed "traditional" accessory or furniture accent piece can't help but radiate beauty and timelessness. We culled the market for two such jewels that will add to your dining pleasure—but won't cost a king's ransom!

Country English Server

Sporting the look of a 17th-century antique, this mobile server, richly carved on a gleaming fruitwood finish, is in scale with today's rooms. It features a flip top, a silver tray drawer and moves on casters. Open: 59 x 19 inches. Closed: 47 x 19 inches. About $400. By Thomasville.

Colonial Mix

To soften the formality of Colonial Williamsburg styling, dark oak furniture is balanced against a stripped pine accent piece from Syroco's Americana Retrospective collection. The handsome five-arm sconce of glass-enclosed hurricane lamps, with a pewter finish, is mounted on a graceful plaque centered with a traditional scroll motif. About $95.

AMERICA'S MOST BEAUTIFUL SHADE TREE AT "UNHEARD OF PRICES"

ACTUAL PHOTOGRAPH OF A FIVE YEAR SCARLET MAPLE. (ACER RUBRUM)

- This gorgeous tree is known as the scarlet maple, red maple, or the EVER CHANGING MAPLE.
- Beautiful Red Scarlet leaves in the fall of the year, and beautiful deep dark green leaves in the spring of the year.
- Grows approximately up to 25-30 feet over a five year period, which makes it one of the fastest growing shade trees in America today.
- Many landscape architects and nursery men refer to this native tree as the "2 in 1" tree, because of its dual qualities of beauty and speed and you won't have to wait long for shade because we ship these beautiful trees at 3 to 5 feet.
- ADAPTABILITY — "The scarlet maple has one of the widest ranges of our native trees, growing from eastern central Canada to Florida, and because of its ease of transplanting it adapts to any type of soil." (From All About Trees by E. Johnson.) The one tree experts agree will grow anywhere in the U.S.A.

Dina Merrill:
Have You Ever Tried My "Virtuous Cabbage"?

By Dina Merrill
In conversation with Helen Dorsey

I like informality. Just recently, we had a birthday party for our daughter Heather. A bunch of kids and one other couple came over, and we sat on the floor, ate shrimp curry with brown rice . . . and, of course, birthday cake.

Cliff [Dina's husband, Cliff Robertson] cooks, too. He's particularly inventive if you let him loose with a bunch of leftovers. Several years ago, when we were in New Mexico, we forgot to do the marketing. When I came home, Cliff said, "Tonight we're having tacos, but with a very peculiar filling." He had mixed together everything he could find in the refrigerator – bits of pineapple, leftover shredded chicken, tomato and lettuce– and stuck it in the tacos. It was yummy!

I cook quite simply–I don't go in for heavy seasonings or too many rich sauces. But I love herbs, like tarragon and dill, and I use them in flavoring some of my recipe specialties–Mussels Marinère, Veal Scallops With Mushrooms and Virtuous Cabbage. I don't know where the name for Virtuous Cabbage came from, but it's easy and delicious!

Two movies Dina will be starring in this fall are "Running Wild," with Lloyd Bridges, and "Throw Out the Anchor," with Richard Egan. She'll also be appearing in TV's "Hawaii Five-O."

Yukky. Yummy.

If you want all the fruit you serve to look and taste its freshest, what you really need is Fruit-Fresh. Because Fruit-Fresh contains a special ingredient that locks in the natural, "just-picked" color and flavor. Which means no more brown, mushy-looking peaches.

Fruit-Fresh is economical, too. A 5-oz. can will preserve up to 75 lbs. of peaches. Here's how: For Canning: simply add Fruit-Fresh to the regular syrup. For Freezing: add Fruit-Fresh to the syrup or dry sugar. For Fresh Fruit: sprinkle Fruit-Fresh on your just-sliced fruit before refrigerating. Sound good? It tastes delicious.

Keeps fruit looking and tasting fresher.

MUSSELS MARINERE

4 pts. mussels
1 cup dry white wine
1 tablespoon chopped scallion
1 sprig parsley
½ clove garlic, pressed
Small piece of bay leaf
Pinch of thyme
Freshly ground black pepper
3 tablespoons butter
Salt to taste
1 tablespoon chopped parsley or dill

1. Scrub mussel shells with a stiff brush and rinse thoroughly to remove sand.
2. Place shells in a kettle with wine, scallion, parsley sprig, garlic, bay leaf, thyme and pepper.
3. Cover kettle and cook over high heat until shells open, about 5 minutes.
4. Remove mussels from the kettle. Discard any mussels that are not open! Remove top shell and place mussels in a heated deep dish or tureen.
5. Strain stock and cook over high heat until liquid is reduced in volume by one-third of its original volume. Add butter and salt.
6. Pour stock over mussels in tureen. Add chopped parsley or dill to garnish. (Serve in deep soup bowls or casseroles and eat mussels directly from the shell. Delicious served with thick slices of crusty French bread.) Makes 6 to 8 servings

VEAL SCALLOPS WITH MUSHROOMS

8 small veal scallops (about 1½ lbs.)
2-3 tablespoons butter
6 large fresh mushrooms, thinly sliced
1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
¼ cup dry vermouth
Salt
Freshly ground black pepper to taste

1. Flatten scallops slightly by pounding.
2. Heat 2 tablespoons butter in large skillet, add veal and brown quickly on both sides. Remove scallops and keep warm on heated platter.
3. Add remaining butter to pan drippings. Sauté mushrooms until golden brown and remove to heated platter.
4. Add mustard to pan drippings. Stir in vermouth and cook quickly over high heat to deglaze pan. Season with salt and pepper.
5. Pour sauce over scallops and mushrooms on platter. (Excellent with hot cooked brown rice!) Makes 4 servings

VIRTUOUS CABBAGE

1 medium-sized head of cabbage, washed
Salted, boiling water
2-3 tablespoons butter
⅓ cup pignola nuts
4 strips lean bacon, cooked drained and crumbled
Freshly ground black pepper

1. Break cabbage leaves into small pieces and place in saucepan with enough boiling, salted water to barely cover cabbage.
2. Cover and boil for 3 to 4 minutes or until cabbage is barely tender and retains its color. Drain.
3. Heat butter in small skillet and brown pignola nuts.
4. Top cabbage with nuts and bacon. Season to taste with black pepper. Makes 4 servings

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

Brainpower:

It's Nice to Have, But How Much Do You Know About It?

True or False? There are interesting differences between men's and women's mental functions. (See No. 5)

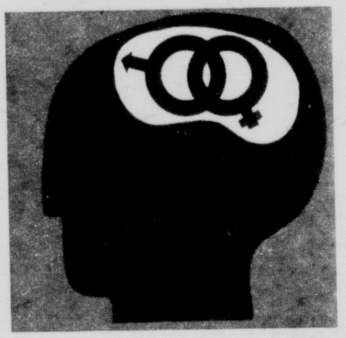
TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Thinking gives some people a headache.
2. Fat people think differently than other people.
3. People who are lacking in intelligence tend to make up for it with curiosity.
4. Some people never use all their brainpower, while others use more than they have.
5. There are interesting differences between men's and women's mental functions.
6. The more intelligent you are, the less likely you are to become neurotic in your old age.



ANSWERS

1. True. You've often heard the complaint "Just thinking about that gives me a headache," and with some people any situation which necessitates their putting their mental marbles through their paces causes them to be nervous and distraught. And psychological studies show that this can culminate in a headache. In fact, the headache is a defense mechanism for not having to think any more.

2. True—as evidenced by studies at the University of Texas, which showed that overweight people tend to be more conservative in their thinking, more bound by tradition and precedent and less inclined to entertain new or novel concepts and ideas. They might be described as practical, no-nonsense thinkers, less likely to be carried away by fanciful or illogical flights of imagination.

3. False. A team of investigators from the University of Delaware and Bryn Mawr College made an interesting study in which subjects' ability to think and reason was compared with their self-ratings on curiosity. Results showed a positive relationship between curiosity and intelligence. It has been observed that "curiosity is one of the certain characteristics of a vigorous intellect."

4. True. Just as some people don't use the brains that they have, there are others who use more than they have—they pick other people's brains, ask their advice and opinions, and after evaluating them, tackle and solve problems they otherwise wouldn't be able to handle. This is an effective formula for stepping up your mental horsepower when pressure situations demand all you've got and more. The trick, however, is in astutely assessing other people's ideas and concepts and separating the wheat from the chaff.

5. True. Take the memory processes, for example. In psychological studies at a leading university, men and women students were asked to record their earliest memories. Marked differences were noted: "Males reported significantly more memories relating to 'games and parties' and 'accidents to self,' while females reported more memories relating to 'family interaction' (pleasant or unpleasant), 'frightening experiences' and 'sensual experiences.'" More men recalled pleasurable experiences, and women reported the most neutral experiences—neither pleasant nor unpleasant.

6. True. A psychiatric study of people 65 and over has shown that those who manifested neurotic or depressive symptoms averaged significantly lower I.Q.s than emotionally healthy subjects of similar age. It is concluded that intelligence is a key factor in facilitating a good adjustment to aging.

Woman with arthritis increases grip strength with Mentholatum Deep Heating Rub

PHILADELPHIA—"My grip strength improved," said Sara Kait. A spritely 75 year old nursing home resident, Miss Kait had taken part in tests conducted by Mentholatum Deep Heating Rub and Extra Strength Lotion. First an instrument was used to measure grip strength. Then Mentholatum Deep Heating Rub was applied for temporary relief of minor pain and to improve mobility. Later, when tested again, the grip strength of most of those tested had significantly improved. "It certainly works," said Miss Kait.

Use as directed.

The Doctor Lets You In

HOW TO GET THROUGH SNEEZIN' SEASON

We all know that hay fever is caused by pollen from the ragweed plant, but did you know that ragweed thrives in dry soil (mostly east of the Mississippi) where other plants have difficulty surviving, and that, in wetter weather, ragweed growth may be limited by the growth of other plants around it? So a wet summer may be your greatest ally when hay fever season comes around. What to do? Well, first, try to avoid pollen. Pollen is heaviest in early evening and until dew washes the air in the early-morning hours. Stay indoors after dusk, using air-conditioning. Keep windows closed and keep flowers out of the house. (Chrysanthemums and marigolds are lovely, but they are insidious relatives of the ragweed.) Over-the-counter antihistamines are often good for minimizing hay fever symptoms, but if your case is severe, stronger stuff may be needed—like a cortisone-type medication your doctor may wish to prescribe for brief periods. He may go one step further to a series of desensitization shots, but they can't be begun until after the hay fever season is ended. (Though such shots are usually effective, they remain somewhat controversial.) Tip from the doctor: If hay fever's got you so worked up you're thinking of moving to someplace blessedly pollen-free, don't go to Japan. Most of Europe is free from ragweed, but Americans spoiled Japan in the late 1800's when missionaries brought the yellow-flowered plant ambrosia there for cultivation as a garden flower.

FRANKIE VALLI & THE FOUR SEASONS

Our Ten Favorite Records

Since their first hit single, "Sherry," Frankie Valli & The Four Seasons struck gold 17 times—and sang their way to sales of more than 60 million disks. Frankie is from New Jersey, has a three-and-a-half octave range and loves the way Stevie Wonder and Barbra Streisand sing. Frankie chose the first six LPs on the list. The Four Seasons—John Paive, Don Ciccone, Lee Shapiro and Gerry Polci—picked each of the last four records, respectively.

1. Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band, by The Beatles (Capitol)
2. Talking Book, by Stevie Wonder (Tamla)
3. Lazy Afternoon, by Barbra Streisand (Columbia)
4. The Best of Bread, by Bread (Elektra)
5. Serenade, by Neil Diamond (Columbia)
6. What's Goin' On? by Marvin Gaye (Tamla)
7. Somethin's Cookin', by Howard Roberts (Capitol)
8. Heavenly, by Johnny Mathis (Columbia)

Tips On Handling Money Quarrels

Rising living costs strain not only family finances but family relationships as well. As marital therapist Marcia Lasswell points out: "Money conflicts in marriage are nothing new. Until recently, however, most of them stemmed from the different emotional meanings money has for each spouse. But today it is external pressures that cause the frictions." Here are some tips from family experts on how to approach the subject of money in these troubled times: 1) Be realistic. Realize that inflated prices are a fact of life that will be with us quite a while. 2) Don't try to compare today's costs with what you remember from your childhood. It's not possible to be as economical as we remember our parents were. 3) Because finances seem to be beyond your control, don't let yourself "overcontrol" other areas of family life. 4) Be tolerant and understanding about each other's small pleasures. 5) Don't blame each other. —By Norman Lobsenz

THE RICE DIET

You can lose as much weight as you want without hunger through an important weight loss discovery that mobilizes fat to water. Order now and read what medical science says about it. We've published a new, easy to understand guidebook, The Rice Diet, that is short enough to read in one hour. It summarizes all the research in just a few thousand words.

It Must Work Or You Don't Have to Pay Our $1.99 Price

You must begin losing weight within a few days after you mail your order, without hunger, feel healthier and lose as much as you want – permanently – or you get a full refund, anytime. We invite you to ask your own doctor what he thinks about our guidebook. We guarantee that you'll like our delicious menus and recipes like Veal Marengo, Rice Pudding, Fresh Fruit Cup, Canteloupe, Fried Rice, Fresh Mixed Salad.

Famous People Have Endorsed The Results of Rice Dieting

"I truly would have died if I hadn't gone" on a program of rice dieting, says the wife of a former state governor. "I was seriously ill and weighed 230 pounds." She dropped 80 pounds in 19 weeks, and her blood sugar plummeted as well. (Since the diet is largely carbohydrate, this is one of the mysteries of it.)

A famous singer and movie actor, on the other hand, got hooked on the taste of the diet and lost 80 pounds, too. He still follows the diet every day. Before the Rice Diet, he had been on a high-protein diet for ten years or so: "I used to have to put down a pound of steak before recording," he says. "Now, I can eat a little rice and sing like a bird."

The Diet Reverses Much Damage Done by Heart Disorders

Twenty-five years ago our medical establishment was extremely skeptical of the startling discovery that the Rice Diet reverses much of the damage done by blood vessel, eye, heart, and kidney disorders. Without any medication other than a prolonged diet largely composed of unsalted rice, some enlarged hearts grew smaller, blood pressures and blood sugar dropped.

Claims For the Rice Diet Verified by Teams of Doctors

Teams of doctors from leading institutions around the world investigated the diet. They thought that they would scoff at the claims, but they applauded instead. "The question now," concluded one report in one eminent medical journal, "is not 'Does the diet work?' The question is 'How does it work?'"

Please check one box, enclose payment, and mail to us. Order Now.

ISOBEL de ROSNAY

Our own candidate for the poor-little-rich-girl legend is Isobel de Rosnay, the daughter of recently knighted financier Sir James Goldsmith and the wife of Baron Arnaud. The beautiful 22-year-old, reportedly worth over $80 million, is said to find tending her looks "very tiring" and will not venture out of the house when she is tired, claiming she is then so unattractive her friends could never recognize her. Recently, Isobel tried her hand at modeling. It terrified her. "I'm so scared, I'm trembling," she said before her turn came to parade an outfit before Princess Anne and 800 others on the grounds of the Tower of London for the Save the Children Fund. "I must remember to take 90 steps," she whispered to herself beneath a dazzling smile that did a lot to hide the inner uneasiness. Makes you wonder how she gets up in the morning. . . .

"Quite frankly, I'm in this business to make a quick buck and get out!"

THE DOUBLE LIFE OF WILLIAM ANTHONY PRAZSKY
From blue collar on Monday to vestments on Sunday

On Sunday he's a bishop, on Monday he's a mechanic—and he gave up his wife to live this "double life." The Most Reverend Bishop William Anthony Prazsky, 61, was just plain "Bill" to his weekday colleagues at a New York automotive shop. But, in 1968, he decided to enter religious service. Joe Puccio, one of the men at the shop, says: "When I found out Bill was a bishop—well, I thought it was pretty unusual. The men are really open with him, though they tend to try to hold the language down. Bill is very skilled at his job. And he's sort of like a father figure for us; he's a fellow you can lean on, tell your problems to." Becoming a bishop required some sacrifices—one of which was giving up his wife, Petronella (a must, according to church law). She now lives apart from her husband in a nearby "convent" and sews vestments for the church. And the congregation gets every bit of Bill's salary, with his blessings. Bishop Prazsky built his church himself, in the traditional Eastern European style, "to remind the people of their churches back home in the old country." It's even heated by a coal stove!

A funny "inside" story about a great movie classic: "'Walt Disney can thank God his Seven Dwarfs weren't real!' groaned one member of MGM publicity after months of trying to cope with the swarm of midgets who portrayed the Munchkins and sundry diminutives in 'The Wizard of Oz.' The little people were probably the production's biggest headache. Three hundred and fifty midgets were needed for the picture, and the polyglot group of little people assembled came from a wide range of professions. Many of the Munchkins were midgets who, in fact, were forced to make their living by panhandling and prostitution. Assistants were ordered to watch the crew of midgets, who brandished knives and often conceived passions for other larger Metro personnel. The small men pinched Judy Garland's derrière, some even propositioned her. One, more prosaic, asked her for a date. 'What could I say?' Judy once shrugged, 'I don't want to go out with you because you're short? So I said, "No, I don't think my mother would let me." So he said, "Aw, bring your mom along, too!"'" From "Down the Yellow Brick Road: The Making of The Wizard of Oz," by Doug McClelland (Pyramid Books, $4.95).

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

POOR FOURTH

A broom and a mop and a rag
(This fact I believe should be stressed)
Mean more than many a thing
To a housewife with housework obsessed.

Not more than clothing or cash
Or jewelry, food, or drink,
But certainly more than a husband,
Some hubbies (I'm one of them) think.

That mop and that rag," I dare mention.
"I'm home, and I hope, how I hope,
I'll get, when there's time, some attention."

Trying to meet people half way is apt to make you wonder if they understand fractions.
—Franklin P. Jones

"The trill is gone."
—Frank Tyger

DEAR POLLY — For those who need to put starch in pants such as inspection fatigues, etc., hang the pants on pants stretchers and then spray with spray starch and let dry. The touch-up pressing is then very easy. — DIANE.

DEAR POLLY — When patching my husband's denim work pants and using newer denim for the patches, they are much less conspicuous if put on wrong-side-out. They blend in with the somewhat faded material in the pants. — M.H.J.

DEAR POLLY — When I take a loaf of bread from the freezer and open it I place a folded paper napkin or tissue inside, then tie the loaf shut again. The paper absorbs the moisture and the crusts are not soggy. — M.B.N.

DEAR POLLY — When undecided about a shower gift for a bride, fix up a picnic basket with a wooden spoon, stainless or plastic flatware, table cloth, napkins, towelettes, etc. — SUE.

DEAR POLLY — When making full maternity dresses and blouses, make tie belts to match. After pregnancy you can wear the garments with the belts and feel stylish. — MRS. D.I.

DEAR POLLY — The wood dad cuts for our fireplace is sometimes wet and damp. To avoid having a fire that smokes my mom has us stand the logs up by the fireplace. When one is needed, it is dry and near at hand, too. — TAMMY

DEAR POLLY — While working at a gas station my brother got grease all over his uniforms. Our mother put dishwashing detergent in the clothes washing machine and the grease just disappeared. — SUE.

DEAR POLLY — I have found an easy way to get my teenage son to clean his room and I hope it might help other mothers with the same problem. I taped a notice to his door that read "There will be an inspection of this area at 11 a.m. Saturday. Failure to pass inspection will result in no allowance and restrictions to the area." It took only one Saturday for him to realize I really meant business so now the inspection notice is no longer necessary. — JOY.
